HOOVER RESTS AS BUSINESS SHOWS GAINS

Fishing Trip Taken as Omen That General Conditions Have Improved

OUTLOOK IS BRIGHTER
Unusual Activity in Construction Is Indicated for Current Month

Washington — (CPA) — When the president goes fishing in Florida, it may be assumed that all is quiet on the Potomac, and it is—relatively speaking. Congress, of course, when in session is never quiet, for there is much to do and pressure sufficient to keep the various groups active in behalf of a thousand and one causes. But the general outlook—the business situation—while two months ago gave concern and never would have permitted Mr. Hoover to go away for a vacation, has brightened.

To the extent that the president's departure from Washington is significant of a change for the better in the business world, it may be regarded as a good omen. Mr. Hoover never for a moment lost confidence in the stability of American industry but he shared the general concern that a psychological reaction might set in which would cause hesitancy or postponement of a waiting policy.

After a period of benediction, there came a clearer vision of just what the stock market decline of October did or did not do. And business has improved ever since the exact facts were made available. The spur to construction has given decided encouragement to many lines of business which are producers of raw materials or manufacturers of their by-products. The easing of money rates has only recently been accomplished, so there lies ahead many benefits expected to accrue from stabilization of the cost of borrowing. Business has regained its poise and has budgeted itself for 1930 with an idea of what may be expected in the way of income. February, therefore, may be a month of unusual activity, reflecting the beginning of plans that were set aside in November and December and on which decisions were made in January.

TRAVEL RUSH STARTS
Nor is the president alone in his determination to take a rest at this time. A local travel bureau reports that both December and January were poor months; in fact a decided shrinkage in the number of tickets bought for winter resorts was noted. Yet February has started off with a rush and the amount of business is far in excess of a year ago. The usual comment is that December and January required the presence of business people at their desks, but reorganizations having been completed, the weary executives are confident enough about the future to leave the execution of their plans to sub executives and responsible managers. This is a pivotal point for travel southward and the increase in Florida traffic is considerable now that the business situation has cleared.

Mr. Hoover's vacation comes after a siege which began when he was inaugurated. His weekend trips to the Rapidan fishing camp hardly afforded the rest or seclusion that he will get off the Florida keys and the president will need all the strength he can acquire.

3 KILLED AS CITY FARM DORMITORY IS BURNED

Brooklyn, Mass. — (AP) — Three persons lost their lives in a fire which swept a 47-year-old wooden dormitory of the city farm early today. Two others were injured critically. The institution housed 80 inmates. The dead were found on the top floor of the three-story wooden building, which with two of the bodies badly burned. They were a white woman, a Negro man and a white man. The fire started in a laundry of the dormitory and spread rapidly. The inmates were led to safety by employees and firemen.

Docked Ship Burned And Sunk At Pier

New York — (AP) — The North German Lloyd liner Muenchen burned and sank at her pier in the Hudson river today a short time after she had docked at the end of a voyage from Bremen.

The fire was accompanied by a series of explosions of shellac in one of the holds. Firemen pouring water into the hold were thrown from their feet as the blasts shook the whole ship and the pier. There were four explosions.

Mrs. Josephine Gehrke, 50, a cabin stewardess, was knocked down by the fourth explosion and slightly injured. The 263 passengers had left the ship before the explosions had occurred. Many of them still were on the pier, however, having their baggage examined by customs men. They were ordered off the pier as the flames spread and the ship was cleared of its crew.

The flames spread with terrific speed and ferocity after the explosions, and in a short time the liner sank. The liner made her maiden voyage to New York in July, 1923, being the first German ship since the war to enter the harbor. She was launched at Stettin, Germany, in the spring of the same year.

She was 551 feet long, 65 feet beam and with a gross tonnage of 14,000. She had accommodations for 1,100 passengers. Officials at the North German Lloyd line offices today said they could not place an estimate on her value at this time.

DORAN CONTINUES NEW DRY LAW WAR

Says Indictments Will Be Brought Against Firms Bringing Bootleggers

Milwaukee — (AP) — Prohibition Commissioner James M. Doran, here today for a conference with district enforcement officers, said that wholesale indictment of firms "contributing to prohibition law violations" would be continued with the hope of obtaining an interpretation of the scope of the eighteenth amendment. Indictments yesterday named the Fleischman Yeast company and the Corn Products Refining company as furnishing large amounts of yeast and sugar to distillers for illicit purposes. In addition, more than 150 individuals and dozens of firms were accused in Chicago conspiring to divert specially denatured alcohol into bootleg channels. The move of the government, Dr. Doran said, was to be viewed as first attempts to block the "higher-ups" who, either consciously or unconsciously, contributed to prohibition law violation.

"If we can show," Dr. Doran said, "that individuals and firms knowingly supplied law violators with materials to manufacture illicit liquors and beverages, the courts will be called upon to give an exact interpretation as to the definite scope of the prohibition laws."

Already, the yeast manufacturers and firms supplying sugar to individuals engaged in liquor traffic, have issued statements that their salesmen were under strict instructions to sell products only to "reputable" firms.

2 MINNESOTA ATHLETIC BOARD MEMBERS QUIT

Minneapolis — (AP) — Rumored discontent over the football coaching situation at the University of Minnesota came to a head today when two members on the senate committee on intercollegiate athletics resigned.

R. U. (Bunny) Rathbun and Arnold Oser, alumni representatives on the committee, submitted their resignations today in letters to E. B. Pierce, chairman of the committee. Both resignations are effective immediately.

Expressing dissatisfaction with the manner in which the committee handled the selection of H. O. Criss as head football coach and E. B. (Bud) Wiseman as his assistant, Rathbun's letter declared alumni representation on the committee "appears to have become so futile that I cannot justify my continuance thereon."

Oser's letter said "I concur absolutely in the sentiments expressed in Mr. Rathbun's letter."

Jail Break Plot Foiled At Racine

OLD BOUNDARY ARGUMENT TO BE REOPENED

Michigan and Wisconsin to Discuss Rights of Fisherman in District

Madison — (AP) — The rights of Wisconsin fishermen to operate in a 35-mile area in Green Bay will be discussed by the boundary commissions of Wisconsin and Michigan at a meeting in Chicago Friday at which the old boundary dispute between Michigan and Wisconsin may again be thrown open. Deputy Attorney General H. A. Minahan said today. The meeting was occasioned by the demand of Michigan authorities that Wisconsin fishermen vacate the 35-mile area or be penalized. Confiscation of the fishermen's nets would mean the loss of many thousands of dollars to Wisconsin fishermen.

Officials of the two states have agreed that violation of the Michigan laws by Wisconsin fishermen shall remain status quo until the boundary commissions arrive at some settlement.

The present controversy is the direct result of a decree entered by the United States Supreme court handed down a decision in March, 1925, in which the Wisconsin boundary claims were upheld. Under the Wisconsin claim, the boundary line projected east from the center of the ship channel of the Menominee river between Menominee, Mich., and Marinette, Wis., to the main ship lane running north and south in Green Bay. This boundary cut off Michigan's claims to a number of valuable islands in the bay.

HIGH COURTS ORDER

The supreme court ordered that a decree be entered to make the decree effective and the resultant decree changed the boundary line upon which the court had ruled. By stipulating the new line, the attorneys made certain concessions, the triangular 35-mile area being given to Michigan and an approximate 20-mile area being awarded Wisconsin. The 35-mile area is a greater importance to Wisconsin fishermen inasmuch as it is close to the Wisconsin shore. Michigan officials recently served notice upon Wisconsin fishermen that they were fishing in Michigan waters without having a license. A Michigan commercial fishing license would cost Wisconsin fishermen $200 while Wisconsin charges but $3 for a commercial license.

3 LEAP FROM BURNING BUILDING; 1 MAY DIE

Chicago — (AP) — Leaps for life from eight story windows into nets and precarious descents to sinking ladders were thrilling as thousands saw last night when five swept two floors of the Gunther building, just south of the Loop.

Miss Margaret Paine, one of the three who sought escape from the flames by leaping into a net, was injured so seriously she may die. She struck the net feet first and her body rebounded several feet into the air. A flying heel cut a deep gash in the cheek of one of the men holding the net. On the rebound she struck another net holder, Ralph DeBorch, a cab driver, and his shoulder was broken. The young woman's leg was broken and her skull fractured.

Miss Paine was the second of three persons to leap from the eighth floor. The first jumper was Joseph Sandman. He struck squarely in the center of the five lists spread below and suffered only a slight wrench to his left shoulder.

BALLIET ADDRESSES FURNITURE DEALERS

Stephen Balliet, president of the Appleton Home Merchants' association, spoke at the meeting of the Fox River Valley Furniture Dealers' association Monday night in the new Gold room of Conway hotel. The subject of his talk was Chain Stores. Arthur Schumacher, Green Bay, reported on the work being done by the Wisconsin Retail Furniture Dealers' association, which will meet next Monday and Tuesday in Milwaukee.

MAN SMOTHERED TO DEATH DURING FIRE AT RACINE

Racine — (AP) — Believed to have escaped as fire did $15,000 damage to a clothing store here last night, Peter Jensen, 65, smothered to death. Seven others, roomers in the building, escaped.

The fire, starting in the basement of the three-story structure, spread quickly throughout the building. The owners, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sorenson, living on the second floor, spread the alarm to the roomers and notified the aged man. He was believed to have escaped with the others.

As firemen made their inspection after getting the blaze under control, Jensen's body was found on the second floor near a stairway.

The entire stock of the clothing store, operated by Phil Combau was destroyed.

JUDGE WHO CONDEMNED SLAYER IS THREATENED

Chicago — (AP) — Judge Otto Kerner, who last week sentenced August Vogel, the "whim slayer," to death in the electric chair, was guarded by police today.

Actions of an unknown man who called at Judge Kerner's home in River Forest in the jurist's absence resulted in placing a guard about the home. Later, it was revealed that Judge Kerner had received a threatening letter.

FATHER SLAYER MUST FACE MURDER CHARGE

Milwaukee — (AP) — Despite his plea of self-defense, Gustave Tetz, 29, who shot and killed his father during a family quarrel several days ago, today was held on a first degree murder warrant.

2 SHOTS FIRED IN FIGHT FOR INMATE'S GUN

Racine — (AP) — Two shots were fired during the second futile attempt of Max Somach, Chicago, to break jail here early today.

Deputy Sheriff Neils Peterson grappled with the alleged robber as he walked from his cell after picking the lock, grabbing the hand in which Somach held a .22 caliber revolver. Somach's hand was injured by his own gun and Peterson's hand was burned with powder.

Held with John Russett, also of Chicago, for robbing Len Miller, in his downtown office here two weeks ago, of $1,000 diamond and $500. Miller recently talked with one of those questioned in the Benny Testa murder mystery and is thought to have received the run at that time.

He and Russett were unable about a week ago attempting to pay the bars on their cell. They were separated and Somach placed in a "drunk cell." They were to be taken into court today.

When Peterson went about the jail feeding the prisoners this morning he opened the door leading to Somach's cell, passed on to other prisoners after giving him food, and hearing a noise, turned to see the prisoner walking out of the cell block toward the jailer's office.

Somach had fashioned a key to his cell door from the handle of a soup spoon.

TWO SHOTS FIRED

The deputy sheriff dropped his tray and ran to Schomacher before the latter could turn and fire. Grabbing Somach's gun hand, Peterson wrestled with the robber during the struggle. He was finally subdued and placed in his cell again. He said he was uninjured.

Officers watching him a few minutes later, however, saw him rising at the far portion of his right hand. They again interrupted him and found he was trying to extricate a bullet.

Somach and Russett were arrested in Chicago after John Kopke, arrested in connection with the Milwaukee robbery, had turned state's witness and implicated the two. Kopke had already been sentenced to a state prison, but was being held in custody today. He and Russett, however, were not involved in the Milwaukee second attempted break. Russett was found in his cell and denied knowledge of Somach's second try for freedom.

An official investigation into the passing of the gun to Somach was carried on when officials arrived at the jail.

PROPOSAL TO BUY LAND BRINGS STATE INQUIRY

Madison — (AP) — Hearing on a proposal that the village of Blair acquire local property of the Northern States Power company was adjourned until March 1 by the railroad commission today, after Assemblyman O. S. Loomis, village attorney, conducted an intensive examination of company officials.

Assemblyman Loomis is seeking to have the railroad commission determine the valuation of the power company's property in the village before it is purchased. Questioning G. B. Rorick, Eau Claire, district manager for the company, Assemblyman Loomis inquired if he had sent boxes of claims to each member of the commission.

Rorick admitted that the power company had boxes of claims to each of the city officials, with which he had negotiations.

OPPOSITION TO HUGHES IS INCREASING IN U.S. SENATE

But Regulars Expect Him to Be Confirmed by Substantial Majority

Washington — (AP) — Senate leaders agreed to resume consideration of the nomination of Charles Evans Hughes to be chief justice of the United States at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

Increasing opposition to Mr. Hughes was developing in the senate.

Senators Borah, Republican, Idaho, and Glass, Democrat, Virginia, were listed today among the opponents of the former supreme court jurist and Republican presidential nominee, as senate leaders began to sound out sentiment preparatory to resuming consideration of the nomination. There were indications that Borah would follow up the attack launched in the senate yesterday by Senator Norris, Republican, Nebraska.

Administration leaders, however, were confident of early confirmation of Hughes despite the unexpected opposition.

Senator Watson of Indiana, Republican leader, predicted a "very decisive majority" for confirmation.

Most of the Democrats were said to be in favor of confirmation.

Senator Walsh of Montana, the acting Democratic leader, voted for a favorable report of the nomination in the judiciary committee yesterday and all other Democrats on the committee who were present did likewise.

While not discussing his opposition to Hughes before the debate is resumed, Senator Glass indicated yesterday he was displeased with the participation of Hughes in the shreveport case whereby Glass conceded states were divested of all rights in intrastate commerce.

Senator LaFollette, Republican, Wisconsin, likewise is in the opposition group, and Senator Blaine, Republican, Wisconsin, showed his opposition when he voted against the Hughes nomination in the judiciary committee.

There were a number of indications that most of the western Republican independents will lineup against the nominee.

Senator Brookhart, Iowa, a member of the western Republican independent group, announced he would vote against Hughes and that he might speak.

Senator Watson said he would make every effort to obtain a vote on Hughes by nightfall.

MOTHER GETS WRIT TO BAR GIRL MARRYING FILIPINO

Los Angeles — (AP) — A superior court order stood today between Ruby Robinson, 22, and Tony V. Moreno, 24, a native of the Philippine islands, who sought to wed.

A preliminary restraining order preventing the county clerk from issuing a marriage license to Robinson and Moreno was made returnable Feb. 19, when the question of making it permanent will be decided.

Moreno, the latter a former dance hall employee, had signified his intention of marrying Saturday.

The county marriage license bureau here has been issuing licenses to Filipinos on their affidavits that they are neither Mongolians nor Negroids. The California civil code contains a section which provides that a white person may not marry either Mongolians or Negroids and Moreno has been issued under an affidavit written in May, 1921, by a priest claiming that the state of California did not intend to bar marriage between whites and Malays.

Robinson had filed the required affidavit.

In applying for a restraining order against the proposed marriage, attorneys for Mrs. Robinson held that a thorough ethnological research had been made and that there were five distinct races of mankind, of which the Malays and Mongolians were separate classes. They asserted there are only three classes and that, body when an impostor exploded as a Mongolian, or Malays, are included in a Mongolian classification.

Edison Says He's Feeling 85 Years Old

Inventor, 83 Today, Answers Usual Questionnaire Submitted by Reporters

Fort Myers, Fla. — (AP) — Thomas A. Edison, celebrating his 83rd birthday here today, declared that the biggest thing the American people can accomplish during the next year is to "pay more attention to engineers than to politicians."

The aged inventor scribbled this was a stub of pencil as he gave his written answers to a questionnaire from newspapermen who were interviewed at his annual birthday interview.

Despite that he walked blithely to his workshop for the audience with the reporters and quickly wrote his answers to the questions, Mr. Edison declared he felt older than he really is.

"How old do you feel?" was one of the queries.

Generally about 50," replied Mr. Edison, "but lately some nerve has bothered me and done some experimenting with my internal machinery and I feel about 85 years."

Queried as usual on his attitude toward aviation, Mr. Edison said he believed "more experimenting to increase safety" should be made before "commercializing too much."

"Do you think a young man graduated from high school will derive greater benefit by spending four years in a modern university or by entering business immediately?" he was asked.

"The way things are today," Mr. Edison replied, "I should say, enter business."

"At what age do you consider the electrical development is today? Childhood, adolescence, maturity or old age?"

"Childhood," was the laconic answer.

What will become of the common laborer when the full automatic machine eliminates hand work?"

"He will own a home and a lot of leisure time," Mr. Edison said, "but alcohol doesn't intervene."

"What is your attitude toward commercial aviation?"

"Do more experimenting to increase safety before commercializing too much."

"Can you tell the greatest disappointment you encountered in your work, also the greatest satisfaction?"

"I am always disappointed until the problem is solved. Not more than one out of 20 of the details work at first."

Following the questionnaire, Mr. Edison went home and made ready for the unveiling of the Edison Memorial plaque in City park. He motored to the scene of the unveiling where he was joined by his old friends, Harry Ford and Harvey Firestone. Together with them and their wives, Mr. and Mrs. Edison walked to the scene of the unveiling.

They were given a round of applause by the crowd which viewed the unveiling.

CLAIMS WESTERNER TO GET DORAN JOB

San Francisco Paper Says Otfedahl Stated for Commissioner's Post

San Francisco — (AP) — The San Francisco Examiner today said it had learned that Alf Otfedahl, former deputy federal commissioner of immigration under J. Edgar Hoover, had been offered the job of head of the United States immigration service.

Otfedahl has been in the service of the federal government for many years. Several times he has been nominated by President Hoover to be collector of customs in San Francisco but the appointment was opposed by Senator Hiram Johnson of California, and President Hoover withdrew the nomination.

Since then Otfedahl has been named head of a large immigration unit for the Los Angeles port of entry in Los Angeles.

JUDGE CONSIDERS PLEA OF ARTIST'S ATTORNEY

Los Angeles — (AP) — Superior Judge Harry J. Axtell today will decide whether the $20,000 breach of contract suit brought by Dolores St. John, Spanish dancer, against Ferdinand Pinney Harle, artist, will be decided by the jury or whether a verdict will be directed for the defendant.

Attorneys for Harle yesterday entered a motion for a directed verdict, based on the contention on the part of the artist that St. John was not a dancer but a prostitute.

St. John's attorney, however, contended that she was a "dancer of the first rank" and that Harle was married at the time she danced with him.

The defense also contended the girl had been married to a man in Mexico, where she danced a mock marriage ceremony was performed and she was a widow, and therefore, under the law, a widow.

Official has been in the service of the federal government for many years. Several times he has been nominated by President Hoover to be collector of customs in San Francisco but the appointment was opposed by Senator Hiram Johnson of California, and President Hoover withdrew the nomination.

MAY ARREST PARENTS OF STRIKING PUPILS

Chicago — (AP) — The battle of Lovett's schoolhouse was on today. The latest offensive of William J. Hogan, superintendent of schools, was to order the arrest of the parents of the striking Lovett pupils unless they had their children report for classes at the Burbank school.

The parents opposed this transfer as it forced the pupils to cross a street railroad tracks enroute to the school.

Yesterday, mothers of the striking pupils taught classes in a neighborhood church. The parents engaged legal talent to fight the transfer.

Study Methods of Humanizing Undersea Craft During Warfare

FRANCE AND JAPAN FIRM U. S. and Britain for Abolition—Italy Agrees but Wants Safeguard

London — (AP) — Submarines were virtually assured a new lease on life as weapons of war during a historic debate at the plenary session of the naval conference today in the course of which the five great naval powers of the world presented their views as to the abolition of these "terrors of the deep."

Out of the wealth of eloquent pleas either for or against the retention of these weapons grew formal resolutions which were generally taken as meaning that submarines will be "humanized" and that an effort will be made to restrict their size and number.

There was an air of tensely which no other plenary session has seen as the delegates of the sea powers faced each other in the Queen Anne's room of St. James palace to make their declarations regarding this problem which has torn the world since the days when the Lusitania was sunk with all aboard.

In the United States and Great Britain for the abolition of submarines and France and Japan for their retention, holding to their thesis that they would not surrender this arm of their navies, Italy agreed in principle with America and Great Britain but with reservations which could safeguard her interests as compared with those of other powers.

GIVES BRITISH VIEW

After Prime Minister MacDonald had formally opened the session, A. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty, arose amid great silence and in measured tones declared Great Britain's belief that submarines should be wiped from the navies of the world. The French and Japanese delegations listened with particular interest as he declared with emotion that submarines were "not defensive but inhuman offensive weapons."

"The American delegation is in favor of the abolition of the submarine," he amplified this declaration and later handed in a resolution calling for the committee to study these questions.

1—Abolition of the submarine. 2—Regulation of use in war time. 3—Regulation of unit and size of undersea craft.

In other words he, like Mr. Alexander, opened the road for a compromise with France who, it was known, would agree to humanizing the submarine but would flatly refuse to accept abolition.

Then came Georges Laguesse, French minister of marine, and there was a shifting in the seats by the other delegates to get a full view of France's spokesman.

In rapid staccato sentences, M. Laguesse declared that France declined to abolish submarines. She considered them necessary defensive weapons. They are not offensive. He left no doubt that his country was adamant in this stand but he declared an olive branch in proposing that the committee study the possibility of humanizing not only submarine warfare but the activities of all classes of warships.

The speech of Dino Grandi, Italian foreign minister, was a diplomatic reiteration of her standpoint which since the beginning of the conference has been for naval equality with France. Premier Mussolini's spokesman stated that Italy did not object in principle to abolition, but if submarines were done away with all the powers must participate and there also must be reduction in other categories of ships.

Admiral Takarabe, minister of marine, speaking in meticulous Japanese, reiterated Japan's contention for her need of submarines.

So ended today's history-making plenary session and the general feeling among the conferees was that it was notable in that it had discussed a delicate question and had still come through with a note of compromise in the air.

Padlock Threatened For $3,000,000 New York Hotel

13 ARRESTED BY FEDERAL DRY AGENTS

Bellboys Accused of Acting as Salesmen for Several Bootleggers

New York — (AP)—Hotel Manger, one of the newest and largest hotels in the city, situated in the heart of the theatrical district, faced padlock proceedings today as the result of a raid by federal prohibition agents.

A squad of 25 federal agents descended upon the hotel last night and arrested 13 men. Their prisoners consisted of two bootleggers, six bellboys and five waiters.

Major Maurice Campbell, prohibition administrator in the New York district, said warrants had been issued for eight other bellboys, a head waiter, a captain of waiters and two other bootleggers, who were being sought by the federal agents.

The raid was conducted under warrants obtained from United States Commissioner Francis O'Neill in violation of the prohibition law and abiding and abetting the maintenance of a nuisance were charged.

Major Campbell said padlock proceedings would be instituted against the management with the purpose of closing the entire 20-story hotel, with its 1,750 rooms and its elaborately furnished lounges, dining rooms and other adjuncts. He said he had evidence that the management was aware of the conditions.

Considerable turmoil attended the raid, Major Campbell said, which was conducted with dramatic suddenness after several weeks of preparation.

BELLBOYS WERE SALESMEN
He said 15 men had been planted in the hotel for some time gathering evidence. It had not been necessary for them to ask for liquor, he said, as bellboys came to their rooms soliciting business for the bootleggers. The agents paid the money to the bellboys and the bootleggers delivered the liquor.

Last night, Major Campbell said, his men arranged for purchases and when the bootleggers made delivery they were arrested. The bellboys and waiters were then seized.

After the raid Major Campbell issued a statement saying:
"About two years ago I called a conference in my office of hotel proprietors and owners of the principal hotels in New York city in an effort to get their cooperation to prevent the sale of liquor on their premises."

"That time I said I hesitated to make a case against a hotel with its large investment, but that if the hotels did not stop the sale of liquor to their guests I would not hesitate to make a case against them."

"So the time came when I had to correct the conditions myself and to make a case because this particular hotel apparently made no effort to comply with the law."

COST $3 MILLION
Hotel Manger, which is located at Seventh-ave and Fifth-st, was constructed and furnished at a cost of $3,000,000. It was opened in 1928, among its permanent guests are many theatrical personages and it caters to a large transient clientele.

Two previous attempts have been made by federal authorities to padlock large hotels for alleged violation of the prohibition law. In 1924 action was brought against the Ritz-Carlton after federal agents said they purchased liquor from waiters in the Japanese Roof garden. After efforts to padlock the entire hotel as a nuisance failed the action was narrowed down to the roof garden, but this also was unsuccessful.

A similar action was brought against the Brevoort, one of the old historic hotels, after the management had admitted charges that liquor was dispensed to certain patrons. A compromise was effected whereby the dining room where the liquor had been served was padlocked for six months and the rest of the hotel permitted to operate.

Chimney Fire
The fire department was called to the residence of A. F. West, 515 N. Union-st, about 6 o'clock Monday evening when a small chimney fire broke out. No serious damage resulted.

Push Conservation Work, Izaak Walton League Is Urged At Annual Gathering

History of Horicon Marsh Fight Is Traced by Louis Radke

Speaks to Waltons

Conserve Wild Life and Forests of County, Green Bay Judge Advises

The intensive and consistent fight for restoration of Horicon marsh since 1905 was outlined in detail by Louis Radke, vice president of the Wisconsin chapter of the Izaak Walton league, at the third annual banquet of the local chapter of the league in the Crystal room of Conway hotel Monday evening. Approximately 500 people heard the address.

Addresses by Judge Henry Graess, Green Bay, first president of the Wisconsin chapter of the Izaak Walton league, and H. C. Behrnt, Fond du Lac, state president of the league, preceded Mr. Radke's speech. A musical program, which included vocal solos by George Bernhardt, baritone and Miss Marion Pansky, soprano, was given during the banquet.

Mr. Radke, who has been in the fight for restoration of Horicon marsh for 10 years, told of the corrupt practices of a group of Chicago engineers and capitalists, who supposedly used the natural game refuge for financial gain. He pleaded with the league to carry on the battle until the proposed natural barrier is reconstructed for the restoration of the natural refuge.

BUILD DAM IN 1845
"The first dam to create the artificial lake 15 feet deep in Horicon marsh was erected in 1845 and it was still intact in 1868 when the lake was known to be the largest artificial body of water of its kind in the world," he said. "It was possible for commercial fishermen to take 140 tons of pickerel and pike and 30,000 muskrats there annually."

"It was shortly after 1868 that Seth Clark, legislator, introduced a bill in the state assembly asking that the dam be removed. The bill passed the assembly. A short time afterward the Mechanical Union Manufacturing Co., was organized, which sold land around the marsh for 6 years' time the marsh was drained via the Rock river route, and the game refuge was destroyed."

"In 1883 a group of capitalists from Chicago, New York, Cincinnati and Milwaukee leased the lower and upper halves of Horicon marsh at $200 a year to carry on their 'land graft'."

"They continued to drain the marsh by constructing ditches and canals until all there was left was land on which it was possible to raise only timothy and cat-tails. Many farmers' living in the neighborhood the state paid exorbitant prices for the land."

OUTLINES PROBES
The speaker then traced the history of investigations conducted by legislators, who found that there was a crying need for restoration of the marsh, and who marveled at the immense expanse of land that in reality was lying idle, the "political football" of "land grafters."

"It was shortly afterwards that the assembly took its first great step towards helping the group of Horicon fighters by approving the restoration. The measure was signed by the governor."

"It was thought then that the battle was finally won, but the Chicago group, aware of defeat, had other plans, and immediately sought to have the bill repealed. In order to bolster their stand they forced an increase in the assessment of land at Horicon marsh."

"They attempted to fight the act, even though it was before the supreme court, and no one dreamed that a day after the meeting of the Federated Women's club at Milwaukee on Dec. 1, 1929, the supreme court would uphold the act. It was through the combined cooperation of the Izaak Walton league and Federated Women's clubs that the issue was finally put over.

TRACES LEGISLATION
Mr. Radke briefly traced legislation which followed during the years of 1921 to 1925. He stated that in 1921 the group of men interested in restoring the marsh was sadly defeated, and that in 1923 and 1925 when they again approached the assembly, they made a fair impression.

"A year or so later a resolution was submitted asking that an investigation be conducted on the marsh," he said. "It was found that the drainage of the marsh by the Chicago and New York capitalists was illegal, according to state law, which decrees that Rock river was and always shall be a navigable stream."

"The bill was unanimously approved in the assembly, but was defeated in the senate. It was then that the group of Horicon warriors started their campaign to vindicate themselves and to prove that the Chicago and New York land grafters were in the wrong."

"Over 255 petitions were circulated in the state and over 100,000 people signed them. The circulation of these petitions was called vicious and corrupt propaganda by the land grafters."

"In 1927 the group again pleaded with the assembly and sought a $500,000 appropriation to accomplish its task, but only half that amount or $250,000 was appropriated."

"But the Chicago group would not give up, and finally sought to establish a private hunting grounds, thus over-riding the decision of the supreme court. Their engineers drew up many plans to trap the men who sought restoration through continued land sales, but all of them were found wanting and thrown on the scrap heap."

"The greater part of the fight has been won, but it is up to the rightful owners of the marsh, citizens of Wisconsin, to say where the dam is to be placed. Many proposals have been advanced, but most of them are inadequate and would involve too much of an expense."

"The most feasible place for the dam is where the old one stood at the natural barrier, and the group of men who first started the fight will endeavor to end the long siege by having it placed there."

The investigation will be incidental to hearings on proposals for the repeal of the eighteenth amendment. A sub-committee is to conduct hearings on measures to modify the anti-liquor laws.

Representative Schafer, Republican, Wisconsin, intends to demand investigation of prohibition administration in the district of Chicago and in the state of Washington. He expects to ask such an inquiry of the judiciary committee on Thursday. The Wisconsin wet says he is in possession of information indicating the existence of a "liquor diversion ring in Chicago" and of a wide-spread conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws exists in Washington. Conditions in that state have been the subject of an exchange of communications between Senator Jones of Washington, and Representative Laguardia, who are prominently identified, respectively, with the dry and wet forces.

ASKS SENATE PROBE
Meanwhile, a resolution for a general senate investigation of the prohibition conditions rested in the judiciary committee to which it was referred yesterday after its introduction by Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, who voted dry in his home state a few years ago.

The prospects for committee action are indefinite. But Wheeler says he intends to get behind the measure and demand consideration at an early time. However, if the committee makes a favorable report, it is highly improbable that the senate will take up the measure until after the tariff bill is out of the way.

The Wheeler measure proposes that the judiciary committee inquire into "the activities of the bureau of prohibition in the department of the treasury and all matters in any wise pertaining to the enforcement of the prohibition laws of the United States and to report to the senate as soon as practicable the results of its investigation together with its recommendations, if any, for necessary legislation."

In its preamble, it says that "congress should have authoritative information as to whether the complete breakdown of the prohibition enforcement is due to inefficiency, corruption or lack of sympathy on the part of the majority of the people with the law, before enacting other laws or appropriating huge sums of money for its enforcement."

A sub-committee of the house judiciary committee was called into session today by its chairman, Christopher of South Dakota, to consider the proposal of the Hoover Law Enforcement commission to broaden the

Many Witnesses to Be Heard After Thorough Inquiry Opens

Washington — (AP)—A thorough-going investigation of prohibition conditions will be undertaken tomorrow by the house judiciary committee, promising a lively and protracted continuation of the controversy that has been in progress for nearly two months.

Chairman Graham has announced that all who so desire will be heard and a long list of witnesses, speaking for the anti-prohibition side of the argument has been announced, including Pierre S. Dupont and W. W. Atterbury.

RIVALS KILL EACH OTHER WHEN THEY MEET IN GUN DUEL

Mexico City — (AP)—Jose Angel Trujillo, mayor of Toluca, Jalisco, and Juvenio Munoz, former rebel chief, shot each other to death in a pistol duel in the main plaza of that town, says a dispatch to La Prensa.

The dispatch said the plaza was crowded with onlookers who were thrown into a panic when the two men met accidentally and opened fire at each other. Personal enmity dating from a year ago, when Trujillo headed agrarian forces against Munoz's rebels, led to the shooting.

CIRCULATE WARNINGS AGAINST BOOK AGENT

A warning against N. A. Hight, of the Corporation Service company of Durham, N. C., who for $18.00 offers to list selected attorneys in the "American Directory of Corporation and Trial Lawyers," has been issued by the National Better Business Bureau.

The information has been received here by Kenneth Corbett, chamber of commerce secretary. He offers a money back guarantee which stipulates "that unless you receive at least $100 in fees from the clientele of the 1929 directory, the listing charge of $18.00 will be refunded to you."

A Toledo attorney informed the Toledo Better Business Bureau some months ago that he remitted $18.00 to Hight and never received as much as an acknowledgment from him. A letter addressed to the Corporation Service company by this attorney, were ignored, it was reported.

DUCE IS GREATEST ORGANIZER TODAY, PRIEST TELLS CLUB

Mussolini Alone Has Brought His Country to Front, Lions Are Reminded

The praises of Benito Mussolini, "Duce of the Italian people, were sung Monday afternoon by the Rev. F. X. Van Nistleroy, pastor of the Holland town Catholic church, at the weekly luncheon of Lions club at Conway hotel.

"Mussolini is without a doubt the greatest organizer the world ever has known," the speaker said. "In seven years he has brought Italy from a state of devastation to one of the most highly developed countries in the world." Father Van Nistleroy said.

"All of Mussolini's constructive work was carried on without the loss of one life, while the supposedly great work of such men as Napoleon and other leaders was carried on with destruction of life and property."

"Italy has become one of the wealthiest nations, politically, economically and socially. Its railroads have been electrified and everywhere the country is being modernized. Mussolini has reorganized the banking system to such an extent that bankers from New York found it an interesting study."

GOVERNMENT FOR PEOPLE
"Mussolini expects every citizen to live secondarily for his government, and in turn demands that the government live primarily for the people of Italy."

To Mussolini goes all credit for reconstruction of the Fascist party, which to day has 6,000,000 ardent supporters and adherents. Anti-fascism doesn't mean anything in Italy today, and those opposed to it are of the old Tory type."

The speaker briefly outlined the employment situation in Italy, stating that unemployment is considered almost a crime in Italy and has been placed under police control. A man must find work within 24 hours or must report to the police who find him work.

"Mussolini's politics is love of country, not love of money, and he won't stand for any dilly-dallying politicians, such as are found in America," said Father Van Nistleroy.

"The Italian press doesn't print bunk. Mussolini has made it possible that the people read only that which is constructive and has on frequent occasions said 'The press shall get only what I want it to say.'"

APPLETON MAN FILES PLEA IN BANKRUPTCY

Emil J. Lucht, Appleton, has filed a petition in bankruptcy in federal court with Judge F. A. Geiger at Milwaukee and the case has been referred to Charles H. Forward, Esq., referee in bankruptcy, for administration. Lucht lists his occupation as that of a cabinet maker and has indebtedness of $6,664. Liabilities include wages due, $138; secured claims totaling $3,674.75; unsecured claims of $2,776.25. An accommodation paper is listed at $75. Assets total $3,500 all of which is in real estate and the entire amount is claimed exempt under the law. The date for the first meeting of creditors was set for 2 o'clock Monday afternoon, Feb. 17.

have and no more. My wife and my children are journalistically dead. They are of no concern to the people."

"In Italy there is no divorce, and their is community ownership of property by a man and wife, the speaker said. "Mussolini has told the people to be producers not consumers and those who have not obeyed his command are isolated from society."

Customs Change In Medicine, Too

Whole Trend of Modern Medical Practice is Away From Needless "Dosing"

Back in the old "horse and buggy" days, it was the custom to give large doses of internal medicines for colds and almost every ailment. Then Lunsford Richardson, a North Carolina pharmacist, originated Vicks VapoRub—the better method of treating colds externally.

From the very first, Vicks has been appreciated, especially by mothers of young children, because it checks colds without the risk of upsetting delicate stomachs. Just rubbed on, Vicks acts through the skin like a poultice or plaster; and, at the same time, it gives off medicated vapors which are inhaled direct to the inflamed air-passages.

Today, the whole trend of medical practice is away from needless "dosing," and millions of families in more than 60 countries use Vicks for all cold troubles. Ever-increasing demand for this better method of treating colds is shown in the familiar Vicks slogan, "Made famous when Vicks reached '17 Million Jars Used Yearly'—later raised to '21 Million'—there are now 'Over 25 Million Jars Used Yearly.'"

Income Tax Blanks Are Mailed To Outagamie Residents

ALL REPORTS TO BE FILED BY MARCH 15

Failure to Have Returns in by That Date Makes Delinquent Subject to Fine

Fifteen thousand income tax blanks were mailed out today to citizens of Waupaca and Outagamie counties by Leo G. Toonen, assessor of incomes for both counties. The blanks were addressed and prepared for mailing during the last month by Mr. Toonen and his staff of assistants at the courthouse here.

Tax blanks for corporations will be mailed out from the state tax commission office at Madison, Mr. Toonen said, because corporation income tax is now collected by that office.

Persons who must make reports of incomes are included in four classifications, Mr. Toonen announced, as follows:

"First, all persons to whom a blank has been mailed without regard to the amount of income. In other words, whether the income of the taxpayer in 1925 was large or small, or even though there may have been a loss sustained which may have entitied him to a refund, the taxpayer is liable for the penalty if a report should be made."

Making such report is necessary for the reason that the 1925 income, whether large or small, must be used with that of the years 1927 and 1928 in computing the average taxable income for the three year period.

"Second, all single persons 18 years of age or over, whose income including lodging or maintenance, if such was received by him or her, amounts to $800 or more, over and above his necessary and deductible expenses in producing such income."

FOR MARRIED PERSONS

"Third, all married persons whose income, being the combined income of the husband and wife and children under 18 years of age, exceeds $1,600, over and above his or her necessary and deductible expense in producing such income."

"Maintenance, board, lodging, tips or gratuities apply to all persons whether married or single, and are to be included as income."

"Fourth, all partnerships, trustees and fiduciaries."

Mr. Toonen called attention to the fact that all those who are required to file reports under any of the classifications are required by law to apply for blanks if none are sent or delivered to them by the assessor.

If a person does not receive a blank by mail from the assessor's office and fail to apply for one if he has a taxable income, he would in such case be liable to the penalty which apply for failure to report income, Mr. Toonen explained.

A new policy of handling blanks has been inaugurated which, in the opinion of the tax commission, will be of interest and benefit to those who are required to make out tax returns. Heretofore one blank has been mailed to each individual who was required to make a return and a second blank or work sheet was furnished to those who wished to keep a copy of his or her return.

FURNISHED TWO BLANKS

This year two blanks are being furnished to each person of which one blank is the original and the other a duplicate copy. The original blank is printed on white paper and consists of four pages as heretofore and is practically the same as the last year's blank.

The copy blank is printed on brown paper and consists of five pages of which the first four pages are exact duplicates of the original blank, or in other words the blank which is to be returned to the assessor of incomes when completed. Page 5 contains reliable data relative to the income tax law and instructions for making out the blank and which are intended to be helpful to the taxpayer in making out his blank.

Mr. Toonen, in response to an inquiry as to how the use of the two blanks would assist the taxpayer in filling out the blank, suggested that the taxpayer first fill out the copy blank using the instructions on page 5 completed him and then copy his completed report, as made out on the copy, on the original blank.

If this is done he said that the taxpayer will have an opportunity to look over and make corrections or changes on his copy or work sheet before transferring the data to the original blank.

This copy or work sheet will not only serve to aid the taxpayer in making out his report but can and should be retained by him as a copy of his report and, if preserved, will be found a valuable aid in making out reports in the following year.

TIME LIMIT EXCHANGED

The time limit for filing reports is March 15 as in prior years. Those who file after such date or fail to file when required by law or on request are subject to a penalty of $5 which is in addition to other penalties provided for willful or intentional defaults of income.

Mr. Toonen, commenting upon this phase of the income tax law, stated that while it is not compulsory to file reports prior to March 15, he would advise early filing as so doing not only would prevent possible over sight and failure to file at all, but would also give the taxpayer a better opportunity to make inquiries regarding doubtful matters that delayed or last minute filing out and filing of reports is always conducive to errors and mistakes which are often annoying to that taxpayer when he is later called upon for explanations or corrections.

Mr. Toonen says that those who do not receive blanks by mail may secure them by calling upon him for blanks and that such application may be made by mail or telephone.

Students Debate Athletic Merits

P. T. A. at Roosevelt School Hears Affirmative Team Win

The debate on the value of interscholastic athletics in Appleton high school, presented before the Roosevelt Parent Teachers association Monday evening, was won by the negative team, composed of Carl Ek and Norman Clapp. Affirmative arguments were presented by Charles Widensten and Lawrence Osterhaus.

All four debaters, now students in the high school, are alumni of Roosevelt school. Miss Agnes Hubert coached the boys, and Robert Beggs of Lawrence college was single expert judge.

F. N. Belanger, scout executive, presented the charter to the unit, organized by Scout troop of Roosevelt. E. S. Sager, president of the association and chairman of the boy scout committee, made the acceptance speech. Boys of the new troop gave the history of the American flag in tableau form, concluding the service with the "Star Spangled Banner," played on the coronet by John Horton.

The Musical Art Trio, made up of Miss Eleanor Voecks, violinist; Miss Rosemary Homan, pianist; and Phoebe Nichols, cellist, played four numbers: DeBussy's "Romance," "March of the Wooden Soldiers," "Love in a Cottage," and "At Dawning."

Members of the committee instrumental in organizing the new scout troop were M. Spector, H. P. Ballard, A. C. Ecker and Frank Hammer. E. C. Jung is scoutmaster.

SNOW, RAIN, WARMER WEATHER PREDICTED

Snow or rain with another drop in the mercury is on the weather menu for this vicinity for the next few days, according to predictions of the weather men for Tuesday night and Wednesday.

By Wednesday night, however, the mercury is due for a decided drop, he says.

Similar predictions have been circulated throughout the middle-west for the next 24 hours. Snow was reported in some parts of the state, Monday night.

Moderate temperatures again prevailed here Tuesday following the cold spell of the past weekend. At 6 o'clock Tuesday morning the mercury registered 21 degrees above zero, while at noon it registered 26 degrees above zero. Winds are shifting in the south and southwest, which is a good indication that warmer weather is coming.

LAWRENCE DEBATE DEFEAT MARQUETTE

A Lawrence college negative debate team attacking the question of American disarmament, defeated an affirmative team from Marquette university in Peabody hall last night. The decision was made by L. M. Burroughs, professor of public speaking at Stevens Point Teachers college.

The Lawrence team was composed of William Norton, Marinette, and Daniel Hopkinson, Milwaukee. The Marquette team was made up of Jack White of Milwaukee, a former Lawrence student, and Robert Hansen, Milwaukee. The contest last night will be the last Lawrence home debate until March.

BROWN, RILEY TO REPEAT NEW YORK ACT IN HOLLYWOOD

Former Will Open Cafe and Latter Will Close It—in the Movies

BY JESSIE HENDERSON Copyright, 1936, By Cons. Press Hollywood, Calif. —(AP)—History is due to repeat itself here, and the echoes of that repetition ought to reverberate clear to Broadway and 42nd-sts. in New York City.

Joe Brown is going to open a cafe, and Joe Riley is going to close it. When roles were assigned in an underworld picture on which the Fox film people begin work within a week, Joe Brown looked at Joe Riley and both of them burst into a laugh. "Who says Hollywood's different from New York?" remarked Joe Brown.

In New York Joe Brown used to establish cafes on Princes-st., Times-sq. or wherever, and Joe Riley used to raid them. Every New Yorker who venerates a lamb chop remembers the place Joe Brown ran at Broadway and 42nd. Many New Yorkers remember Joe Riley, formerly body guard to former Police Commissioner Waldo and, until his retirement less than a year ago, lieutenant at headquarters busted chiefly with international and local crooks of the larger sort.

And in his spare moments he would pound upon Joe Brown and close him out.

CANT BLAME FOOD

Neither the cop nor the connoisseur of cuisine was to blame. Joe Brown, born in New York, was "brought up with the mob," and while straight as a die himself he never had the heart to drop a friend because the friend turned crook. Consequently, crooks as well as respectable citizens, flocked to Joe's restaurant, which the police closed whenever the couldn't find a wanted man anywhere else. Often the wanted man had brought along various bits of incriminating evidence, ranging from contraband bonds to contraband bottles, and as a result Joe's place was closed with a bang. Brown probably got into more mixups with the police than any other perfectly honest citizen in Manhattan.

At the moment Joe Brown is a leading comedian for Fox and Joe Riley is head of the police and fire force at the Fox studios. In the new film, Brown will be bartender in the cafe of which Riley kicks down the door. "Except that I never happened to be a bartender," said Brown "it will be just like old home week on Broadway."

NEGRO KILLED, ANOTHER WOUNDED DURING HOLDUP

Chicago—(AP)—Five young Negroes who held up Elmer Belgin in his delicatessen shop last night blundered. It cost one of them his life, another his liberty and likely will result in the arrest of the other three.

Instead of arresting Belgin hold up his hands, the robbers, carrying guns, told him to put his hands behind him. They backed him toward the rear of the store, curtained off.

Mrs. Belgin had heard the command. When her husband stood with his hands behind him against the curtains, she slipped a pistol to him. He opened fire and one of the Negroes dropped. Three of his companions dragged him to the street. The fifth crashed behind the counter, waiting until Belgin's weapon was empty. When he, too, bolted for the door, Belgin fired his last shot, the bullet striking the bandit in the hand.

Shortly afterward a cab driver found an automobile in which were two wounded Negroes. One of them, Louis Davis, 15, died before he reached a hospital. His wounded companion, Milton Turner, 16, confessed to the Belgin robbery, police said, and named his companions, who are being sought.

Partly snow in north and snow or rain in south portion tonight and Wednesday with temperatures tonight cold Wednesday in west and central sections.

GENERAL WEATHER

The high pressure area which was centered over Texas yesterday morning has moved northeast and now overlies the upper Ohio Valley and lower lakes, bringing fair and colder to the lower Mississippi Valley and most of the eastern states, with sub-zero temperatures reported from northern Michigan. The Canadian "low" has moved southward and now overlies North Dakota, attended by unsettled and much warmer in the upper Mississippi and Missouri Valleys and most of the western states. Temperatures are considerably above the seasonal normal in the western plains and upper Missouri Valley. Unsettled, with probably snow and warmer, is expected in this district tonight, followed by snow and colder Wednesday.

CIRCULATE PAPERS TO PUT GOODLAND ON MAYOR TICKET

Although John Goodland, Jr., former Mayor of Appleton, has made no definite statement concerning his candidacy for the office of mayor in the spring election, his nomination papers are being circulated by his friends.

Several weeks ago Mr. Goodland said he would not enter the race, but Monday, commenting upon the circulation of his papers, said that he had not yet decided on the matter.

Mr. Goodland was mayor of Appleton from 1924 to 1926. Mayor A. C. Rule, incumbent, will be a candidate for reelection.

REJECT ALL BIDS ON ADDITIONS TO HIGHWAY GARAGE

Committee Says It Hasn't Enough Funds to Go Ahead With Work

All bids on the two proposed additions to the county garage were rejected at a special meeting of the county highway committee at the courthouse Monday afternoon because the bids were not uniform and because they exceeded the amount of money available for the work.

Fifteen contractors submitted estimates on the two additions and bids ranged from $13,310 to more than $17,000. Incidental costs, including installing a heating system, concrete floors, wiring and a crane in the building, would raise the total estimated cost to more than $17,000, the committee pointed out.

The county board last November appropriated $11,335 for the work. The Appleton Construction company, which submitted the low bid, had based its estimate on doing the work in April when the frost is out of the ground. The members of the committee also pointed out that inasmuch as the other contractors had estimated the cost of the building with the view of starting work at once, it would not be fair to let the contract unless all contractors had based their estimates on the same basis.

The committee decided to refer the matter to the county board this week. If the board decides to appropriate enough money to do the work new bids will be called for. Otherwise the project probably will be abandoned altogether.

The two new additions are to be used for a work shop and an oil storage shed.

FIND BOTH PARTIES NEGLIGENT IN CRASH

A jury in justice branch of municipal court Monday afternoon returned a verdict in the automobile accident damage suit, brought by H. C. Lemke, Appleton, against George Kruckeberg, town of Grand Chute, in which it held that both parties in the crash were negligent and that neither was entitled to damages.

Lemke had asked $350 while Kruckeberg filed a counterclaim for $50. The accident occurred last March when a delivery truck owned by Lemke collided with a machine driven by Kruckeberg at the corner of W. Spencer and S. Outagamie-sts. The case was tried once before in the same court but the jury disagreed.

2 FINED FOR CREATING DISTURBANCE AT DANCE

Norbert Wydevon, Kimberly, and Alvin Felzer, Appleton, were fined $10 and costs each by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court Tuesday morning when they pleaded guilty of creating a disturbance at a dance hall. The pair were arrested at the Chicken Coop Inn, in the Fourth ward, Sunday night by Edward Paddelford, a deputy sheriff who was on duty there. They started a fight and were placed under arrest.

GUARDS HAVE PICTURE TAKEN FOR MAGAZINE

Twenty-five members of Co. D, 12th Infantry, Wisconsin National Guard, dressed in their new roll call uniforms and with Pershing caps, had their pictures taken Monday night at Appleton. The boys all qualified with machine guns this summer.

The picture was taken for publication in the Wisconsin National Guard Review, official magazine of the guards.

TOWN'S HOODLUMS GIVEN BUM'S RUSH BY CHICAGO COPS

Approximately 1,000 Bad Characters Are Caught in Raids

BY OWEN L. SCOTT Copyright, 1936, By Cons. Press Chicago—The threat of vigilante action, directed by a veteran soldier, served to stir the unpaid and supposedly dispirited Chicago police department into giving the town's hoodlums the bum's rush over this weekend.

Monday police stations were filled with suspects, and the buck had been passed up to States Attorney John A. Swanson who is given a chance to send 22 captured gangsters to prison for a year. Police raids had netted 1,000 bad characters, nearly 300 of them with criminal records. Bandit attacks which had been averaging nearly 50 a day, dropped Sunday night and early Monday to eight.

As usual the "big shots" and the hundreds of members of the gang armies had jumped to the suburbs as the Monday morning police activity. But Commissioners of Police William Russell had this to say to them:

"I am sick of having a lot of cheap gun carriers think they can rule a city like Chicago. The police will not relax and the department is going to kill these hoodlums, put them in prison, or drive them out of the city."

Citizens have heard equally positive statements made in the past without serious result, and are remaining open minded. They are watching a police department that has gone unpaid since Christmas—one with days of cancelled and extra duty ordered and compensation lacking.

In the background of the present situation is Col. Robert Isham Randolph, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce and head of a secret committee of six "men of courage" who have pledged themselves to see that crime gets some rough handling in this city from now on.

Colonel Randolph is a civil engineer, one who has helped make the water for the Chicago river run uphill to give the town drainage. He is a civil engineer, one who has helped make the water for the Chicago river run uphill to give the town drainage.

He sees the present crime campaign as a military movement and Chicago is waiting and watching to see how her criminals take this new evidence of determined action.

Germany Becoming Land Of Quick Lunch Contests

Berlin — (AP) — Germany, where leisurely dining once was traditional, is rapidly giving up its way to the front in the international quick-lunch handicap.

In fact, some parts already are exceeding the speed records hung up by the pie-concoits of the New World. Berlin, for example, is a veritable happy hunting ground for the man who has no time to eat.

In Berlin the places dedicated to hasty nourishment are so numerous and varied that one can always find a place exactly suited to one's lunch time taste, whatever it may be. There are hundreds of large and small "Konditoreien" of cafes, where the man in a hurry can sink into an over-stuffed archaic as though about to relax for the rest of the afternoon, and yet order and receive and eat in a quarter of an hour one of those excellent light-lunches such places always are prepared to whisk out of the kitchen in a jiffy.

If that isn't fast enough, there are scores of buffets in which one buys over the counter very quickly what the appetite requires. Buffets, too, are everywhere. Buffets, too, are everywhere. Buffets, too, are everywhere.

Major A. C. Rule will attend a luncheon meeting of the directors of the Wisconsin City and Regional Planning association at the Elzath hotel, Milwaukee, Wednesday noon. Mr. Rule is a member of the board.

Plans for the coming year, including arrangements for the annual convention, the appointment of a legislative committee, and of a committee to study the planning laws of the state, will be discussed.

GRAFF ORGANIZES NEW LEGION POST

North Fond du Lac War Veterans Now Have Post of Their Own

Commander Marshall C. Graff of the state department of the American Legion, directed by a veteran soldier, served to stir the unpaid and supposedly dispirited Chicago police department into giving the town's hoodlums the bum's rush over this weekend.

The new post is composed of North Fond du Lac vets who formerly were members of the Fond du Lac post, the group now having 59 members and expecting to increase it to about 100. The evening's meeting opened with a dinner at the Retlaw hotel.

Fond du Lac, at which members of the new post and officers of the Fond du Lac post were present. Following the dinner, the new group with the Fond du Lac drum corps, went to North Fond du Lac for a public meeting at which speeches were made by Commander Graff, Col. Frank Schneller and F. Ryan Duffy, Fond du Lac, past state commanders.

After the public meeting Commander Graff met with about 25 wives and sisters of veterans and organized an auxiliary to the post.

SCOUTS ENTERTAIN P-T ASSOCIATION

An American flag demonstration was staged by valley council boy scouts of Troop 12, Roosevelt Junior high school at the school Monday evening at the monthly meeting of the Parent-Teachers association. The demonstration was under the direction of Edward Jung, scoutmaster, and members of the troop committee. Twelve scouts took part in the actual demonstration, but many other members of the troop were present.

The Union Baptist Ladies Aid society met Wednesday afternoon of next week with Mrs. Dane Knapp. This will also be in the form of a farewell to Mrs. Knapp who is soon to move to Minneapolis. Everyone is invited. Lunch will be served.

General Of Cotton Co-Op Knows Growers' Problem

Montgomery, Ala.—(AP)—The president of the government's $30,000,000 cooperative cotton marketing association has a background that taught him the planter's troubles.

Allen Northington, heading what is potentially the world's largest organization of its kind, is a farmer and banker gifted with a genius for organizing.

As the only general manager the Alabama Farm Bureau cotton association has had in its seven years.

He is president of a bank at Prattville which deals largely with farmers, nearly all cotton growers.

When he seeks refuge from the business world he finds it in his rose garden at his beautiful Cloverdale home. When away from his flowers, Northington likes to hunt and fish with his boys, Allen, Jr., 11, and Oscar, 7.

He was born in Prattville 52 years ago the son of W. T. Northington. His father was a farmer and president of the Continental Gin company of Prattville, a corporation known to every cotton producer in the country. In 1915 he married Miss Kemper Welch.

Northington is a graduate of the University of Alabama.

Postal Station No. 1, which had been located in Schlitz, Brothers West End Drug store up to the time of the fire there several weeks ago, was reopened as business Tuesday morning, according to W. H. Zuehlke, acting postmaster. The station was transferred from the west end to the downtown store. Tuesday it was moved back to the old location. Mr. Zuehlke said that the government had not suffered any loss in the fire.

GIESTE TO MOVE FROM COUNTY JAIL NEXT WEEK

Ex-Sheriff Fred W. Giese and his family will move from the sheriff's headquarters at the county jail next week to their new home at 1916 W. Commercial-st. Mr. Giese announced Tuesday morning. Mr. Giese was removed from the office of sheriff about a week ago by Governor Walter J. Kohler, but he and his family have been occupying the sheriff's quarters at the jail until they could find another home. As soon as Mr. Giese and his family are out Sheriff Lappen and his family will move into the jail.

COMMON INTERESTS BIND U. S., ITALY AT NAVAL MEETING

Stand on Submarine Questions Causes Groups to Work Together

BY MILTON BRONNER
London—Signor D. Grandi, tall, thin, black-bearded, young soldier, who is Italy's Secretary for Foreign Affairs, and the rest of Mussolini's merry men have been thrown into the arms of the American delegation.

There is an Italo-American entente cordiale, which is one of the finest outstanding things of the great Naval Conference so far as it has gone. Subsequent events may come to modify this state of affairs, but at present all is serene. And, by the same token, there is also a sort of Italo-British honeymoon also.

There are many reasons for this state of affairs. Even before the machinery of the Naval Conference was put in motion, there were various things that put the Mussolini government and that of the United States in good humor with each other. Italy made no unusual difficulties over American immigration restriction laws, even though Italians were pretty hard hit by them. It so happens that Mussolini would like to keep his fellow-citizens as Italians and is, therefore, inclined to keep them at home, or as immigrants into Italian possessions.

Another point of cordiality is that Mussolini, in a most business-like way, got together with the United States in the matter of funding and repaying Italy's war loan debt to America. Once the papers were drawn up, he saw to it that his Parliament and his government promptly ratified the agreement promptly, without any quibbling and without any surplus about an American race of stockholders, such as was the case in the French Parliament, before the government won ratification by a slender majority.

WITH AMERICANS
But it is on the high spots of the Naval Conference itself that Mussolini has seen fit to march with the two great English-speaking powers. Mussolini, like President Hoover and Premier MacDonald, wants to see something come out of the Naval Conference, which will enable the nations to cut down instead of building up their naval strength and thus take some tax burdens off the people. The money that might be saved he wants to use in building up his country in an industrial and economic way.

AGREE ON SUBS
Italy at once agreed with Great Britain when MacDonald advanced the idea of doing things with the building of big capital ships. And Washington has since indicated a desire to reach a decision on the same question.

Italy has come around to the American and British view that submarines should be abolished entirely. It had been counted on to line up with the opposition composed of France and Japan. But far-seeing Italian statesmen and naval men have visioned good reasons for reversing their attitude.

The two possible enemies Italy sees are France and Yugoslavia, a country which is in close relations with the French.

Yugoslavia has ports on the Adriatic and Yugoslavian submarines could work great damage to Italy's great and growing mercantile marine. So could France, basing her "subs" in the island of Corsica and the great port of Marseilles.

Italy, therefore, has more to gain than to lose if the "subs" could be abolished. As France and Japan are utterly and entirely opposed to this, Italy will be found lining up with America and Britain in an endeavor to limit the number and size of the submarines.

POINT OF OPPOSITION
The one point upon which Italy will make her most decided stand is that she must have absolute naval parity with France. She points out that at the Washington naval conference she was given such parity in battleships and air craft carriers, and the French saw no objections. She claims now an equal parity in cruisers, destroyers and submarines. In fact, if submarines are to be continued, Italy claims it is vital that she shall have cruisers and destroy-

CITY'S HEALTH STILL IN GOOD CONDITION

Soft snow and slushy streets of the past week evidently had little effect upon the health of the city, as no more contagion was reported to the deputy health officer last week than is usual at this time of the year. Eighteen placards were put up during the week by Theodore Sanders, seven for mumps, six for measles, four for chicken pox, and one for whooping cough. The period of isolation for measles and chicken pox is two weeks, and six weeks for whooping cough. Victims of mumps must be confined for one week following the disappearance of the swelling.

There are sufficient numbers to destroy enemy submarines in Mediterranean and Adriatic waters.

RIVALRY OF NATIONS
The French, not only so far have stubbornly refused to hear of Italian parity in these smaller warships, but have plainly estimated to America and Britain that France reserves to herself the right to build as many as she needs for her security. If France builds, Italy will want to build. But Italy is not as rich as France. She does not want to undertake the great financial burden. She will, therefore, throw all her strength toward securing a program which will not mean building more ships, but building less.

The only French point the Italians go up against is that Italy is a Mediterranean power solely, whereas France has sea coasts on the Atlantic and on the English Channel as well. The prospects are that the meetings of the Naval Conference are going to be enlivened by some tall sparring between the two great Latin powers.

Mustapha Kemal Leading Bread And Water Revolt

Angora, Turkey — (AP) — Ghazi, into the deep town well, Ihamour's only source of drinking water. At first the owner and other humane Moslems threw down food to the unfortunate duck despite their own misfortune of being deprived of the drinking water. The town council met, sternly forbade this practice and outlined a program for removing the duck from the well. Courtless effort with a rope and a bucket met with no success. Each time just before it was hauled to the top, the duck slipped back into the well. Volunteers were called to go down and bring the duck up, but the well is particularly narrow and deep and no volunteers stepped forth. The town council met again and voted that the duck must be shot. Expert marksmen took aim after aim but not a shot reached the bird. When last reported it was still living in the town well and the exhausted population of Ihamour trudged to a neighboring district for its daily supply of water.

Kemal's government is faced with the job of removing such ducks and of removing the wells into which they fall. Architecturally lovely with their marble facades but wholly unsanitary in their underpinnings, the thousands of public fountains in Turkey left as points of infection by the orthodox Moslems of the old days, have to be replaced by a modern water system.

The water reform, also being studied by government commissions, is a harder nut to crack. Even the big centers such as Constantinople and Angora lack up-to-date water systems and the plight of Anatolia is illustrated by the recent "duck catastrophe" in Ihamour, a crowded district of an Asiatic suburb of Constantinople. NEW LAB SEEN FOR FOREST PRODUCTS

Bill Appropriating $900,000 for Building Introduced by LaFollette

BY RUBY A. BLACK
(Post-Crescent Washington Correspondent)

Washington—Prospects for the erection of a $900,000 building for the United States Forest Products Laboratory at Madison seemed bright here today when it was learned that the Secretary of Agriculture and the Bureau of the Budget have both approved the project.

Senator Robert M. LaFollette, Jr. of Madison introduced a bill to authorize the building Saturday. It is hoped that it can be passed in time for an amendment providing the money to be written in an appropriation bill to be passed in the session of congress. Money for public buildings is available as soon as appropriated, so that work could be begun without waiting for the next fiscal year to begin July 1. The LaFollette bill would authorize the Secretary of Agriculture to accept in behalf of the United States and to be donated by the University of Wisconsin, the land to revert to the university if the federal government ever ceases to use it for a forest products laboratory.

It further authorizes the Secretary of Agriculture to construct on the land such two-story building or buildings as in his judgment may be suitable for the use of the forest products laboratory, with modern equipment for laboratory tests and experiments.

BILL FOR $900,000

The bill authorizes an appropriation of $900,000 to construct a building, equip it with a complete laboratory from the building being used by the university and the forest products laboratory now occupies space in the new building, and meet all other expenses incident to the project.

The Secretary of Agriculture has approved the measure, and has received a letter from the university president, Col. J. C. Cleveland, president of the board of regents, and LaFollette in the financial policy of the university.

Budget approval was a big step for those interested in the project, and it is expected that congress will pass the bill in the near future.

accord with the economic policy of the president, for it is a part of the program of expansion of public buildings to stabilize business during the depression in private business. Carlisle P. Winslow, director of the Forest Products Laboratory, which is operated under a cooperative arrangement between the United States Forest Service and the University of Wisconsin, left Washington Saturday night following several days of conference with federal officials and LaFollette in the financial policy of the university.

AVOID THAT FUTURE SHADOW*

By refraining from over-indulgence, if you would maintain the modern figure of fashion

Women who prize the modern figure with its subtle, seductive curves—men who would keep that trim, proper figure, eat healthfully but not immoderately. Banish excessiveness—eliminate abuses. Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. When tempted to excess, when your eyes are bigger than your stomach, reach for a Lucky Strike. Coming events cast their shadows before. Avoid that future shadow by avoiding over-indulgence if you would maintain the lithe, youthful, modern figure.

Lucky Strike, the finest Cigarette a man ever smoked, made of the finest tobacco—The Cream of the Crop—"IT'S TOASTED." Everyone knows that heat purifies and so "TOASTING" not only removes impurities but adds to the flavor and improves the taste.

"Coming events cast their shadows before"

"It's toasted" Your Throat Protection—against irritation—against cough.

*Be Moderate!... Don't jeopardize the modern form by drastic diets, harmful reducing girdles, fake reducing tablets or other quack "anti-fat" remedies condemned by the Medical profession! Millions of dollars each year are wasted on these ridiculous and dangerous nostrums. Be Sensible! Be Moderate! We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. We do declare that when tempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for a Lucky" instead, you will thus avoid over-indulgence in things that cause excess weight and, by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, graceful form.

LOST: ONE BLIZZARD

A squad of men equipped with magnifying glasses, telescopes, transits and other impedimenta common to seekers after truth were abroad in the land today earnestly searching for the blizzard which the common council of the city of Appleton so confidently predicted for Feb. 11.

The prediction was made on Dec. 24 when the council, impressed with its importance, rejected the petition of city manager advocates that a special election to be held on Feb. 11, arguing that extremely bad weather was to be expected on this date. Subsequent events have proved that the council, as a weather prophet, is in about the same class as the groundhog, with the exception that the groundhog doesn't take itself seriously.

The council, in view of the California temperature we are enjoying, has no right to feel miffed if the people entertain a suspicion that politics, more than the weather was the real reason for postponing the election until April.

MONUMENTAL GOISIM

The Chicago Tribune says that Secretary of State Stimson's disarmament proposal is an abject, cowardly and even comical surrender to British naval supremacy. Ever since the conference opened it has been devoting columns of propaganda to sustain this thesis. It appears to believe that its views on naval defense are a finality of perfection. The president of the United States, the secretary of state, the secretary of navy, descendant of a family which gave the country two of its distinguished presidents and whom the Tribune lauded as a reliable defender of American interests before he went to London; General Daves, former Ambassador Morrow, whose record in Mexico stamped him as one of our foremost diplomatists, and Hugh Gibson, another of our most capable and experienced men in a field of foreign service, are in the Tribune's eyes a pusillanimous, spineless, ignorant, incompetent, absurd aggregation without appreciation of American interests or ability to protect them, and devoid of patriotic purpose.

We do not think the American people will hesitate to make a choice between those who are maligning the government and its delegation at London, and the agreement they may see fit to conclude. We do think they will repose confidence in those who are conducting the negotiations and will approve and ratify their acts. The Tribune's monumental goisim is exceeded only by a fanatical perverseness. The interests of the United States both in London and at Washington are in the hands of able and loyal men. They know what they are about and they are not going to lose sight of the great objective, namely to put an end to insane naval competition and to promote the cause of world peace by the placing of effective restraint upon armaments that are admittedly excessive, burdensome and provocative.

ARCHITECTURAL SHOW

Chicago's World's Fair in 1933, alias "Century of Progress," is to be largely an architectural show. Chicago, says the general manager, will show the world new types of architecture and new methods of building. It will probably set building styles for the country.

That may be. There is a good opportunity. This nation is on a building spree, with no sign of a let-up. It is said that $10,000,000,000 may go into new construction this year. We are tearing down and rebuilding on an unprecedented scale. We are erecting public buildings and private homes ever more comfortably and beautifully.

Architecture is already our leading art, the one in which we can challenge the rest of the world today. Chicago presumably has the brains and can raise the money. Let it go ahead and provide its pioneer designs for the America of the future. Other cities are willing to be shown.

A WARNING TO THE G. O. P.

The speech delivered in the house on prohibition by representative James M. Beck, former solicitor general of the United States and a leading authority on constitutional law, compels the attention of the country. Mr. Beck warned the Republican party against self-destruction if it continues to "sell its soul to the fanatical dregs." He said it "cannot hold forever a large number of self-respecting men and women, to whom the intolerance of prohibition is a moral affront. It cannot be half wet and half dry." He said that prohibition had pronounced a collective hypocrisy which would spread only the more at increased efforts to enforce the dry law.

We believe that history and a rational attitude toward prohibition confirm Mr. Beck's conclusions. Notwithstanding there is no immediate prospect of repeal of the 18th amendment and it is possible it will never be repealed, this fact in itself does not constitute an acceptable solution of the problems it has produced. There remain the issues Mr. Beck has impressively raised, and no amount of social and political complacency can put them aside. The conditions which exist and which compromise both the constitution and our national reputation as a law-abiding people cannot be dismissed as unimportant. They are the product of intolerance and fanaticism which it is folly to disregard. No person who has concern for the efficacy of government and law as a matter of principle, as well as the practical effects upon our institutions and our political life, can view them except with misgiving and apprehension.

It is obvious after ten years of Volsteadism that this law represents extremes in the regulation of personal conduct that cannot be achieved. It is useless to close our eyes to the fact that we are attempting to do something that cannot be done. If the moral sense of the country would submit to actual prohibition, even though it has no proper place in the constitution, that would be an entirely different matter. But the simple truth is that it will not submit. Not only has the Republican party surrendered to the doctrines and dictum of the extreme dregs, but in practice it has permitted the wets to have their liquor. It is an anomaly and a falsification that cannot be perpetuated.

Mr. Beck would relieve the inconsistency by repeal of the Volstead act. He holds it is not a violation of the constitution for congress to decline to enact enforcing legislation. His opinion is entitled to respect, and there is back of it the supporting evidence of disregard of other amendments. Strong and plausible objections will be made to Mr. Beck's proposal, but in the last analysis does it not come down to a question of the selection of the lesser of two evils? Of course, congress as at present constituted will not repeal the Volstead act, yet it is conceivable that prohibition may in time place the Republican party on the defensive to an extent that would jeopardize its supremacy. However we may regard prohibition academically, we must face reality. We cannot go on ignoring a state of affairs which degrades and compromises the constitution, and which is responsible for wide-spread and menacing lawlessness.

What Others Say

SAVING TIME
(From the Fond du Lac Commonwealth Reporter)

Outagamie county appears partially, at least, to have solved the problem of speeding up the preliminaries in jury trials.

It has been done through the simple expedient of eliminating from jury panels ahead of time those who would probably be checked off in court later on.

This plan, as followed in Outagamie county, according to Judge Werner, tends to give more efficient jurors, something greatly desired by bar and bench alike.

As Judge Werner explains the method, the jury commissioners, after compiling the list of prospective jurors, send questionnaires to the latter asking for details as to age, physical ability, possible exemptions because of military service and similar facts. The return of these signed questionnaires aids the commissioners in weeding out the list, thereby saving the court from performing that duty when the jurors are called.

Adoption of a similar plan in the preparation of jury lists in our own county no doubt would prove equally advantageous.

Kissed "close-ups" have to be removed from films intended for sale in Japan, since this form of greeting is considered almost a crime in that country.

If a man washes his hands in clear warm water he removes some 1,800,000 germs or organisms. When he uses warm soapy water he removes more than 4,000,000 organisms.

The Post-Mortem

Our Narrative for Tuesday

Once upon a time there was a landlady who possessed both Puritanical and economical tendencies. Her house bore an almost painfully righteous and frugal atmosphere. Particularly definite was she on the matters of intoxication and late visits on the part of guests of her roomers. The former offended her moral sense and the latter provided no rent.

One night she was awakened by unmistakable sounds of revelry from the floor above. Indignant, she advanced toward the center of disturbance. Her rappings quieted the disturbance momentarily.

"Whoosh 'ere!" queried a be-fogged voice from within.

"It's Mrs. Diggs—how many of you are in there?"

"Oh," said the foggy voice, "sh m' landlady."

"Certainly," retorted the indignant one, "Come, now, how many of you are in there?"

"One anna half."

"One and a half?"

"Cer'nly, cer'nly, m' frien' is only half there, now juss wait a minute."

Came sounds of tinkling glass and some gurgling noises. Then, soon after, a loud plump indicated that someone had settled on the floor. Came a triumphant voice.

"Sallright now, Mrs. Diggs, my frien' is out now."

"W-w-what?"

"Goo' night!"

Because it suspected slight irregularities in the conduct of a race track near Paris, a mob of spectators proceeded to completely wreck the place last Sunday. We're different in the United States. In our larger cities we pay immense prize fight prices to see a couple of hams go through with a carefully prepared "bottle" and we go away liking it.

The Chicago Tribune (the world's greatest propaganda sheet) tells us that Uncle Sam has lost his shirt at the London parley. But what's the difference, no matter what the envoys do with the conference, the senate is bound to do something else. And after that's all over someone else will give another conference.

And Paying for It

Prom is over at the University. Several hundred lads can now settle down for the second semester. The first week, of course, will be spent in trying to remember what happened last week.

Today's Anniversary

EDISON'S BIRTH

On Feb. 11, 1847, Thomas A. Edison, America's great inventor, was born at Milan, O. Most of his boyhood, however, was passed in Port Huron, Mich., where his family moved when he was seven years old.

Even as a boy, Edison had marked abilities in organization and invention. He started in business by selling newspapers on the Grand Trunk Railway. In his leisure he occupied himself in a self-constructed laboratory in a freight car. It was here, too, that he printed on his own initiative, a weekly of interest to employees of the railroad.

After having attracted some attention by the invention of appliances in printing and telegraphy, which he studied at the expense of the stationmaster whose daughter he saved from the wheels of an approaching train, Edison sold his ideas for $40,000.

With this money, he established a laboratory of his own. Some of the major developments coming from that workshop were the telephone, incandescent lamp, phonograph and moving picture. The golden jubilee of the invention of the incandescent electric lamp was universally celebrated last year.

LOOKING BACKWARD

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Tuesday, Feb. 11, 1905

North and south bound trains had been hours off schedule the day before, mail and newspapers were delayed, and not a car load of freight except perishable had been handled on either the Wisconsin or Ashland division of the Northwestern road for the past two days.

Herman Getschow had returned from a business trip to Chicago.

Fred V. Heinemann had completed his work at the state university law school and had returned home.

E. P. Ballou had left for Los Angeles, Cal., where he was to remain for the rest of the winter.

Mrs. Jay Jarvis, Ishpeming, Mich., was in Appleton spending a few days with her mother, Mrs. J. P. Hawley, Lawrence, Wis.

Mrs. James Scott entertained a number of ladies the previous afternoon at her home on Drews' in honor of Mrs. Marie Zonne Koenke, who was visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Zonne.

The preliminary and honorary contest of Appleton high school was to be held at the city hall the following Saturday.

TEN YEARS AGO

Tuesday, Feb. 10, 1920

Appleton people had subscribed the sum of $225 necessary to retain the Yellowstone trail through the city.

Joseph Weber was visiting at Racine.

Herman Zecherbach visited at Menasha the preceding Sunday.

Theodore Puente left the day before for Milwaukee to enter Marquette university.

Mrs. Pauline Schlosser, 716 College-ave., was to entertain the West End Reading club at her home the following afternoon.

Mrs. C. A. Leonhardt, 719 Main-st., entertained the night before at a formal dinner party for her daughter, Miss Marguerite.

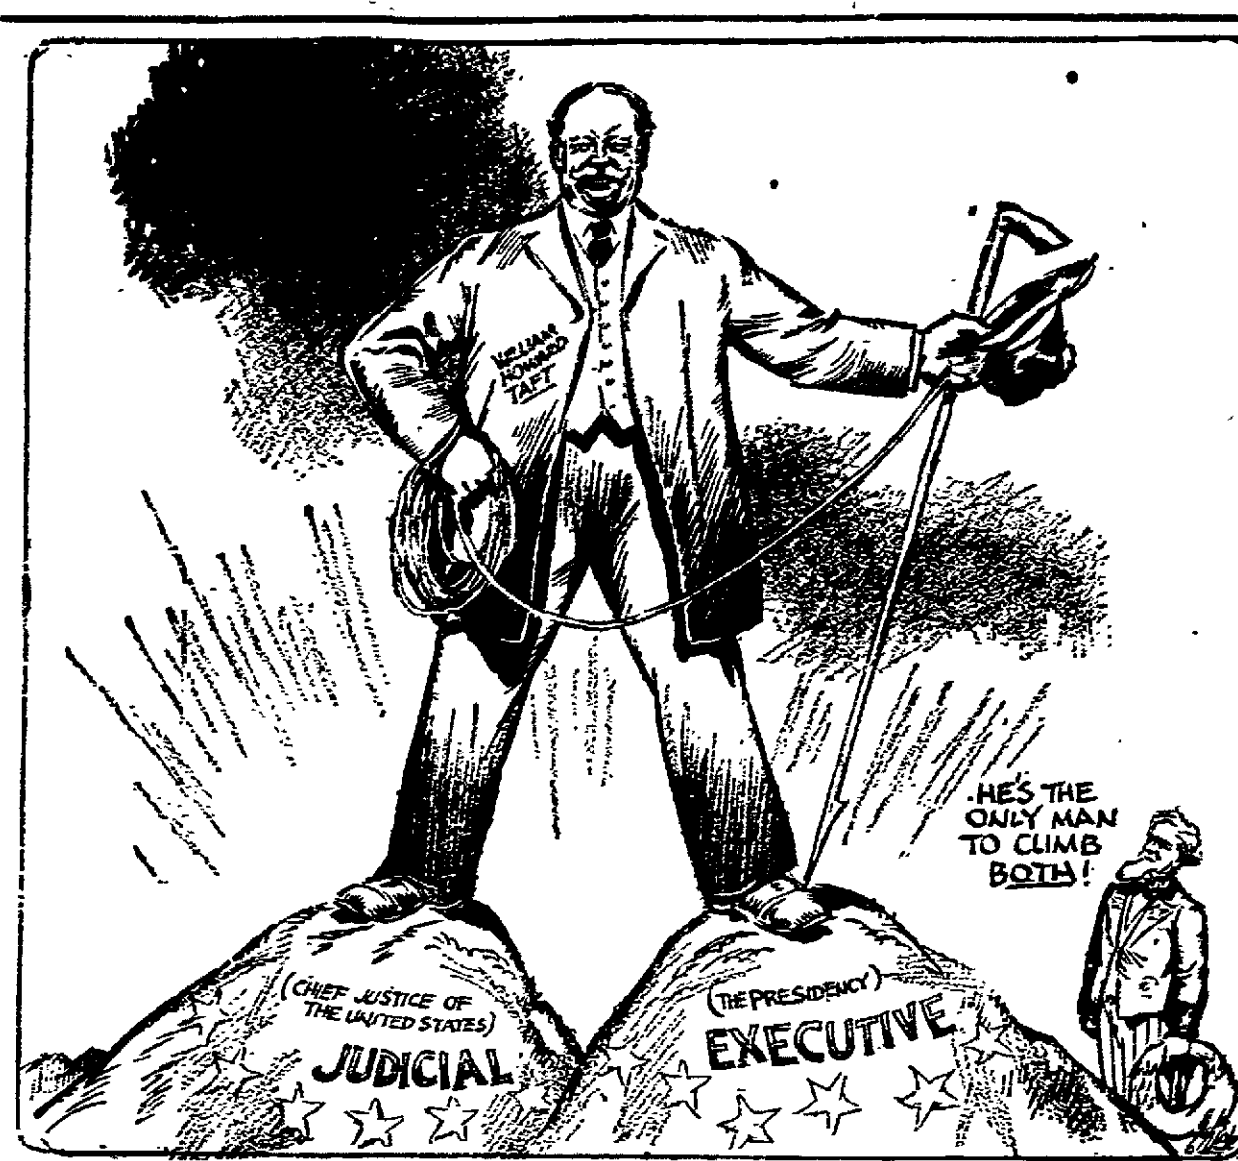

Application for a marriage license was made that morning at the office of the county clerk by Jacob H. Fisher and Linda Koepnick, Appleton.

Mrs. and Mrs. W. W. Lenz returned the previous Monday from a visit at Waupun.

A. J. Koch was a Shiocton visitor that day.

Miss Nell Hardy, Prospect-st., left the day before for Colorado Springs, Colo., where she was to spend the remainder of the winter.

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

Noted Physician and Author

Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. Writer's names are never printed. Only inquiries of general interest will be answered by mail if written in ink and stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Requests for diagnosis or treatment of individual cases cannot be considered. Address Dr. William Brady, in care of this paper.

SOME FOLKS FEED AND SOME EAT

Cannon, whose book "Bodily Changes in Pain, Hunger, Fear and Rage" (Appleton) belongs in every home library alongside of Darwin's "Expressions of the Emotions in Man and Animals" (Appleton), has shown that there are centers for the emotions in the midbrain. That's the part of the brain between the medulla oblongata, if you know where that is, and the cerebral lobes. These emotional centers are normally held under restraint by the higher cerebral centers. Remove the restraint, by cutting off the higher part of the brain, or by a small dose of an anesthetic such as alcohol or ether, and the emotion, pleasure, grief, rage of what have you, are likely to take entire control of the individual and to lead to strange and otherwise inexplicable behavior.

Alvarez, whose studies and views on "nervous" indigestion are, I should think, very soothing to victims of that sort of trouble, tells of a girl he saw after the San Francisco earthquake and fire, thrashing about in the convulsions of hysteria and acting for all the world like a chicken with its head just cut off.

I intended to point out that real hysteria (which does not mean the tantrums or sulking spells commonly called "hysterics") is a state in which, through inhibition or removal of the higher cerebral control, an idea from the "subconscious" gains control of the body. I see now that I brought Alvarez into the discussion a moment too soon.

Do not write and ask me where you can get the writings of Dr. Alvarez on this subject. I don't know. If he hasn't offered his views in suitable form for the lay reader, he ought to. I think his book might fairly fill a place with Cannon's and Darwin's.

Dr. Alvarez tells of a young woman who received a menacing letter from the income tax collector. She took to her bed and began vomiting, and this kept up day and night for a week; then the good doctor visited the tax collector and asked what it was all about and fixed it up for $3.50; the patient made a prompt recovery, proving that not all good medicine comes out of drug stores.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Scarlet Fever Immunity

Is there anything with which a person can be inoculated to make them immune from scarlet fever? I have heard something about the "Dick test" and I don't know whether a Dick's serum is used or not. The doctor in this little one horse town seems to think there is nothing of the sort available. (Mrs. W. L.)

Answer—I am inclined to agree with the doctor in the one horse town. There is a serum, rather two or three different types of serum, used with the hope of immunizing against scarlet fever, but these are still being tried out and we don't know yet how effective they may prove to be.

Boy Eats No Meat
I am a boy aged 16 years and I do not like meat. Mother declares I can never be a strong man unless I eat meat. I would also like to know if it is very beneficial for a boy of my age to drink a glass of milk every day and this only. I expect to be a doctor myself some day. (K. M.)

Answer—It is not necessary to eat meat if you do not care for it. You can be just as strong, as healthy and as keen of intellect without meat as you can with it. The acidophilus milk is wholesome and rather healthful if you like it, but I think plain buttermilk or ordinary sour milk is quite as beneficial in all respects. A glass of milk is scarcely sufficient lunch for a school boy of any age. You should take at least some fruit, too, say a banana, or a baked apple. Or if no fruit, then whatever fresh vegetables the lunch room offers. Milk, for the school lunch should be raw, not pasteurized stuff, and the raw milk must be approved by the local health authorities. Certified milk is raw milk that is produced and marketed under the supervision of local health authorities.

Just then they reached an open space, and came ahead, a smiling face. There stood a funny looking man. He shouted loudly "Whoa! Why don't you stop and visit me. There are a lot of things to see. Why, I can work real wonders with my little rake and hoe."

Sweating Hands

Prescription to stop perspiration of hands. (F. B.)

Answer—Indeed I have not any. But here's a recipe to relieve sweating of the hands:

Chronic acid 30 grains
Water 1 ounce

Directions: Paint or sponge the palms and palmar surface of fingers each night and morning, and allow to dry on the skin. Continue for a week, then resume occasional applications when and as needed. This stains the skin yellow temporarily, but it is effective in controlling the trouble.

The Tynymites

By Hal Cochran

THE Tynymites thanked the queer Olcan, who'd been a real kind-hearted man. "We're much obliged to you," said Olcan with a smile. "Now, if you want to ride a bit, right on the front seat you can sit. Why don't you go ahead and try our bike for 'bout a mile?"

"Well, Tynymites I guess I will. It ought to give me quite a thrill," replied the funny Olcan. "Help me get up on the seat." The Tynymites found him quite a load, but shortly, down the lane he rode. It wasn't long till he jumped ok and cried, "That was a treat."

"We're glad you liked it," Scouty said. And, in a little while he led the other Tynymites to the bike and shouted, "Hey! Let's go! I hope nearby, that we can find some berries which I wouldn't mind. I am as hungry as the dickens. That is one thing that I know."

So, with a wave, they sped away. The Olcan heard them shout, "Good day!" "A friendly little bunch," thought he. "I hope they like their trip. I oiled their bike up safe and sound so, while they travel o'er the ground there's nothing that can happen, 'les my good oil makes them slip."

By this time every Tynymite was far away and out of sight. The scarecrow had gone with them. He was doing all the work. "It's fine of you to do your best while all of us just sit and rest," said Carry. "Why we feel ashamed. It seems that we just shirk."

Just then they reached an open space, and came ahead, a smiling face. There stood a funny looking man. He shouted loudly "Whoa! Why don't you stop and visit me. There are a lot of things to see. Why, I can work real wonders with my little rake and hoe."

Seen And Heard In New York

BY RICHARD MASSOCK

New York —(47)— Incessant readers, New Yorkers are the best customers of the book publishers.

The latter estimate that about 70 per cent of the new books are sold in Manhattan and its purlieus or more than twice as many as the rest of the United States takes.

In Manhattan, even cigar stores and drug stores have long counters of current biography and fiction. In the Bronx and Brooklyn, the cigar stores also operate rental libraries.

Everybody reads something. A subway car is like the corner of a public library. Scarcely a broker, clerk, stenographer or sales girl is without a magazine, book or newspaper. Only thus are they able to while away the journey, ranging from a half-hour to an hour, that takes them to and from work. An indication of the public's reading habits is the opening of a curate store on Fifth avenue for the sale of publishers' "overstock" books that failed to become best sellers. It's a temporary shop in a store site that awaits a long lease tenant.

That brings up another commercial practice peculiar to Manhattan. Let a store become vacant and want for a permanent tenant and some pretty enterprise is pretty sure to move in.

Thus Broadway has such transient tenants as a medicine show, indoor golf games and fly-by-night dealers in trinkets, toys and similarly cheap merchandise.

And now the itinerant vendors of alleged oriental rugs have ceased totting their wares from house to house and have moved indoors among the interior decorators' shops of Fifth, Madison and Lexington avenues.

OUTGROWN BUILDINGS

So rapid has New York's growth become that Irvin S. Chanin, building broker, estimates that the average life of a building at 35 years. At that age, he thinks, the newest structure will be obsolete.

It is all attributed to the constant change in three factors—the neighborhood, land value, and public taste. Decrepitude is seldom the reason for demolishing New York buildings. They rarely stand long enough to be weakened by old age.

A half-dozen examples come to mind. The Casino theatre, built in 1893, and the Knickerbocker, ten years younger, are being replaced by office structures. Once they were on the outskirts of the rialto. Now the theater center has moved northward and left them alone in the midst of the garment industry.

The Hippodrome and Century theaters, erected in 1905 and 1909, also are to be replaced by office buildings. Built for stage spectacles, they are obsolete because the public has found the movies better suited for the spectacle.

The old Waldorf-Astoria gave way to Al Smith's projected enormity, the Empire State building, and the Majestic hotel is being replaced by a taller hostelry. Both the Waldorf and the Majestic, dating from the '90's, were always first class inns, but in later years they could not earn enough from their 10 or 12 stories to pay a profit on the growing ground rent.

REED DROWNED OUT
The senate had just convened. The order of the day was further discussion on America's entry into the league of nations. Jim Reed of Missouri was on his feet attacking in characteristic fashion the league proposal.

Suddenly it began to hail, at first a little and then with steadily increasing volume. As the storm increased in intensity so did Reed's voice. It was almost impossible to hear him, although he was fairly shouting.

McCumber of North Dakota in the confusion arose and shouted something at Reed. Reed, by this time highly excited, roared a noncommittal reply back, only part of which McCumber heard.

One thing led to another between the two.

The crisis came when Reed and McCumber stared across the aisle at each other, their fighting blood up. Republicans made a grab for McCumber and Democrats swung on to Reed. The two were prevented from getting at each other.

"I realized something had to be done," said Watson. "I fairly flew to the president's side."

"Mr. President," I yelled, "we've got to recess until this storm is over."

"Then make such a motion," he yelled back at me.

"Somehow," says Watson, "I managed to make my voice heard above the storm and confusion and the chair ordered a recess. If we hadn't there is no telling what would have happened."

JUST THE STORM
Watson says the amusing thing about the situation was that later Reed and McCumber in discussing the situation found that nothing occurred to warrant such a display of feeling on their part.

PRESENT FARMERS ARE CLASSIFIED AS GOOD AND BAD

Latter Are, of Course, Those Who Are Getting Satisfactory Returns

BY J. C. ROYLE
(Copyright, 1930, by Cons. Press)
Washington — (CPA) — Farmers are being sharply reclassified by governmental agencies and legislators and businessmen. Time was when there were two kinds of farmers—the "poor" farmers, of whom the members of congress spoke with a tremble in their voices, and "rich" farmers like the former Senator Chauncey M. Depew, who used to complain that milk from his cows cost as much as his champagne.

Today there are still two classes of farmers, but now they are poor farmers, who through improper methods of production or marketing, have not made adequate profits, and good farmers who have been successful in securing satisfactory returns.

Despite the agitation over the condition of the farmers in 1929, figures of the department of commerce make it evident that the agriculturists got approximately $35,000,000 more for their crops last year than they did in 1928, which was accounted an excellent year. It is evident, however, that many are still in the poor farmer class. Hence government officials, legislators and businessmen in general are working sincerely and energetically to reduce their number and increase the quota of good farmers.

Business, who are flocking here in increasing numbers, declare that never again will the fact be overlooked that the problem of the farmer involves the entire business structure. Producers, manufacturers and retailers must have someone with money to sell to, and a condition which affects 29,000,000 people, as does the farm situation, must bear heavily on every other section of commercial and industrial effort.
Warnings have been issued against over-production and the farmers are urged to restrict acreage in most crops. The federal farm board is taking a leading part in this move.
Opponents of this policy point out it never has been successful, for the farmers have never followed the advice.

The farm board also is meeting opposition in its efforts toward control of marketing procedure. The farms already engaged in this line naturally are disinclined to let the business pass out of their hands.
The speculators and the farmers all expect the farm board to take some action or make some statement which will advance prices. Economists point out that, after all, the laws of world supply and demand control price and not the farm board.

Stubborn Coughs Ended by Recipe, Mixed at Home

Here is the famous old recipe which millions of housewives have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up a stubborn, lingering cough. It takes but a moment to prepare and costs little, but it gives real relief even for those dreaded coughs that follow severe cold epidemics.

From any drugist, get 2½ ounces of Pine-Fix, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. Then you make a full pint of better remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times the cost. It never spoils and tastes so good that even children like it.

Not only does this simple mixture soothe and heal the inflamed throat membranes with surprising ease, but also it is absorbed into the blood, and acts directly upon the bronchial tubes, thus aiding the whole system in throwing off the cough. It lessens the germ-laden phlegm and eases chest soreness in a way that is really astonishing.

Pine-Fix is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form. Nothing known in medicine is more helpful in cases of distressing coughs, chest colds, and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pine-Fix.
It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

MISS THOMPSON WILL ORGANIZE NEW CLUBS

The week from Monday, Feb. 17, through Saturday, Feb. 22, is to be given over to the organization of new club clubs in the county, according to Miss Harriet Thompson, county club leader. Miss Thompson is arranging to visit each of the districts where there has been an interest expressed in club work, with the purpose of organizing new clubs wherever it is possible. Miss Thompson already has a list of districts where new clubs may be formed. She also has asked that other districts which are considering an organization should get in touch with her as soon as possible so that she can arrange a visit to that place. Requests for visits from Miss Thompson should be mailed or telephoned to her office at the county courthouse.

Your Income Tax

No. 3

The personal exemption under the revenue act is $1,000 for a single person or $3,500 for married persons living together. Also a taxpayer may claim $100 for each person dependent upon him for their support if such person is under 18 years of age or incapable of self-support because of mental or physical defect. Such dependent need not be a relative of the taxpayer nor a member of his household. The term "mental or physical defect" includes not only cripples and those mentally defective but persons in ill health and aged.

Frequently the question is asked: Why is a return demanded when the personal exemption and credit for dependents amount to more than the net income and thus reflects a nontaxable return? The filing of a return that shows no tax liability, however, is not a useless procedure as far as the Bureau of Internal Revenue is concerned. In many cases such returns are found to be claimed by the person filing the return. If the amount of tax liability exemption and credit for dependents claimed is more than the net income, the return is not a waste of time. He who will be tak-properly reduced to the net income. There is no tax liability who would talk on what is to be

Pioneers Of County Will Gather Here

THE fifty-eighth annual meeting of the Outagamie County Pioneer association will be held Saturday, Feb. 22, at Odd Fellows hall. The program will open with the audience singing "America," after which George Werner will give the prayer.

The address of welcome will be given by Frank J. Harwood, and the Woodwind quartette, directed by E. C. Moore, will present selections. Vocal selections will be presented by Miss Maude Harwood and Mrs. Guy Warner. A feature of the meeting will be volunteer remarks which will be limited to five minutes each. Model for Classroom

BY ANNEBEE WORTHINGTON

Here is a cute model for classroom for the little sub-deb who admires snappy clothes that are simple and smart.

It is navy blue wool crepe printed in dark and light red tones and belted at normal waistline with plain red in dark shade of grosgrain ribbon. The collarless neckline is softened by self-fabric bow tie.

It is moulded through the waist and hips with slight blousing above belted in skirt through soft gathered drouce with upward tendency at front.

This attractive style No. 3248 comes in sizes 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. For the girl of 8 years, it can be copied exactly with 1 7/8 yards of 39 inch material and grosgrain ribbon belt.

There are many other fabrics equally fashionable and suitable as crepe de chine, wool challis prints, royan crepe and wool jersey.

Pattern price 15 cents. Be sure to fill in size of pattern. Address Pattern Department, Our Fashion Magazine is 15 cents, but you may order a pattern and a Fashion Magazine together for 25 cents.

HALF-SLEEVES BRING WORRY OVER ELBOWS

BY DIANA MERWIN

Fashion Editor

(Associated Press Feature Service)

Paris—(AP)—Beauty culture is extended to include beautifying of the elbows since forward looking Parisians decided to prepare for a spring and summer of elbow sleeves.

A little elbow oil, some elbow cream and plenty of elbow massage are recommended by cutaries and beauty specialists for women with bony or roughened elbows.

The half-sleeve, ending just above the middle joint of the arm, is the most difficult of all sleeves, it is generally admitted.

Sitting for 15 minutes morning and evening with the elbows in the bowls of olive oil is part of the elbow culture recommended by one specialist.

After the oil comes massage. Then vanishing cream and liquid powder are applied.

Revival of half sleeves is forecast as a result of midseason styles sent to the Riviera and southern resorts.

The Story of Sue

by MARGERY HALE

© 1929 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

NANCY crossed to the desk and raised the telephone.

"Sybil!" she gasped. "Where in the world are you?"

She waited while the answer came back.

"But how did you know we were here? . . . Of course we'll help you but you shouldn't have been so foolish as all that! . . . You say you're at the Breslin cabin on the back road? Well, wait there and I'll send some one for you, but it's a dreadful night. . . . Where were you going? . . . I see. . . . Don't you dare move till help comes, though!"

She turned away from the telephone with her eyes flashing as angrily as the stirred-up waters of the lake outside.

"Sybil Lester took a foolish notion to drive to a schoolmate's some place down state and got caught at the old cabin where we go sometimes on hikes. She took a chance that there would be a rescue party here. Well, I suppose I'll have to send someone."

The boys' mouths filled with pancake and strawberry jam, stopped and gave whistles of surprise.

"Well, as the man-who-lives-here," Harry began, "I see where I have a duty to perform."

"No you don't," Jack stopped him. "I'll go instead. You may come along if you want to."

"Oh no," Barbara interrupted, seeing her two favorites removed from the picture at once. "Just one of you can go. Something might happen here."

"It's too lonesome a drive for just one person," Jack said in a straight, clear voice. "Want to come with me, Sue?"

Sue felt that Nancy Becker's eyes were on her and that Harry was waiting for her answer, too, oblivious of the watchful Barbara.

"I'd love to go along," she said. "Driving anywhere, on any rainy night would be fun, if Jack went along."

"I'll follow along, too," Miles added in a quiet voice. "If your car goes dead it's a good thing to have help at hand. Is that all right?"

"Sure thing," Jack told him.

"How about it, Sarah?" he appealed to her. "Want a dangerous ride to rescue a damsel in distress?"

"Then let's all go!" Barbara clapped her hands and spun around like a golden shower.

"Not for anything. I'm too comfortable," Nancy interferred. "And you aren't going to be brave just

VENETIAN BALL TO END MIAMI SOCIAL SEASON

Miami Beach, Fla. — (AP) — Delights of Venice will cast a sixteenth century spell over the second annual subscription ball here February 14.

The ball will climax formal social affairs of Miami's winter season.

Elaborate and costly costumes, specially built scenery and the warm caress of the Gulf stream breeze will mark the mid-winter affair.

The committee of one hundred, made up of the nation's socially elect who winter in the Miami area, has announced through Clayton Sedgwick Cooper, its president, that the ball will outdo in brilliance all other functions of the season, and will rival the famous Beaux Arts ball of New York.

The guest list, aside from names of members, will not be made public until shortly before the ball is held at the Nautilus hotel.

To be a good sport. You know you're scared to death of that spooky winding road and you're not going to venture on it."

The pansy eyes and the green ones met and clashed.

Sue, though, saw the quick look which Sarah gave Ted and the grim set of his lips.

"Are we the household guards then, Becker?" he said to Harry.

"Not you," Sarah added. "You are going to come along and help for what's the use of a trained mechanic if he isn't there when he's needed. My car has the widest seat and we three will pile in."

"Harry's coming with us. You'll be safe, Barbara," Jack said. "The gardener and the garage men are all here. And I'll be back in an hour, Barbara." Sue sensed the retelling in his voice. Maybe he had wanted to get even with the yellow-haired old but he was sorry, as men always were sorry when they dealt with Barbara. There were always flaxen Ediths in the world, and Sue and Sarah and Graces. And the Liliths, whether they were Barbaras or something else, had love and luck as talismans.

"When you do come back may be I won't be here," Barbara said in a thin little voice.

FOOT HEALTH

Conducted for Readers of Appleton Post-Crescent By GEO. C. DAME

A LITTLE TALK ABOUT HIGH HEELS

The other day a young woman walked into a shoe store and asked the merchant why it was that in a short time she literally punched the shape out of the fore part of her shoes, ran the uppers over in almost no time. She, of course, thought the trouble was with the shoes she had purchased. Yet when the dealer questioned her she remembered that this was a very common affair with her, in fact all of her shoes behaved that way and caused her discomfort.

Now what was the trouble? Perhaps you have had the same experience. It is very simply explained. One of the principal arches of the foot runs across it, right behind the toes. The five bones of the fore part of the foot, like those of the hand, form an arch, a dome-like structure, which is known as the Anterior Metatarsal Arch. Now in walking — that is, when we walk correctly, our body weight is carried on three bearing points, one of which is at the heel bone and the other at the first joint of the little toe and the first joint of the great toe. Between these latter lies the Anterior Metatarsal Arch, and the one which causes the greatest amount of foot aches and ills known to man.

In wearing high heeled shoes, as most women do, the weight of the body is thrown on the two forward bearing points and the Metatarsal arch is depressed, the toes are cramped, corns and bunions form, callouses appear beneath on the ball of the foot right beneath the arch and often there is pain that is felt not only in the foot but the leg and frequently up the spine. Sometimes it is so severe that it cripples.

People when afflicted with the depression of this arch at times believe themselves suffering from neuritis, rheumatism and so close is the resemblance to those excruciating pains, that even physicians are sometimes puzzled. The pain is caused by the pressure of the bones on the nerves beneath the arch. As these are branches of the Sciatic nerve which extends up the leg to the spine, often pain is felt even in the head and eyes.

Then the foot swells, simply because the pressure stops the flow of blood. Then, just as naturally, the shoe must give way.

These troubles can of course be corrected, even while you are wearing high heels. The best plan, however, is to avoid the troubles by having feet carefully checked at frequent intervals.

If you have been bothered with foot troubles, or if you want to avoid them, I shall be glad to advise you. Just phone, write or call at

Washington Society To Be Very Busy In February

BY DOROTHY J. LEWIS
(Post-Crescent's Washington
Specialist's Editor)

Washington—With the first week already gone, February, the shortest month, bids fair to also be the busiest in Washington society.

The President and Mrs. Herbert Hoover entertained at a state dinner at the White House in honor of the Speaker of the House and Mrs. Nicholas Longworth Thursday. They were entertained at dinner Tuesday by Postmaster General and Mrs. Walter F. Brown. This was one of the series of weekly dinners given for the President and Mrs. Hoover by each member of the Cabinet.

With an important birthday and the announcement of an engagement with plans for an early wedding, Wisconsin people in Washington had their share of excitement during February's first week.

The birthday was Senator Robert M. La Follette Jr.'s 35th one and it was celebrated on Thursday.

A romance that is at least half Wisconsin came to light Wednesday when Frank Collier of La Crosse, postmaster of the House of Representatives, and Mrs. Collier announced the engagement of their only daughter, Florence Margaretta to Bryant Hanback of Washington, D. C.

They will be married very quietly at the bride's family home on February 21 and plan to spend their honeymoon in Atlantic City.

Miss Collier is employed in the office of the Executive Assistant at the Library of Congress, and the groom is an employee of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company.

Mrs. Henry Allen Cooper, wife of Representative Cooper of Racine, was the guest of Mrs. James Couzens, wife of Senator Couzens of Mich., at the last of this season's Wednesday morning musicales at the Mayflower. These musicales, so beautifully planned by Mrs. Lawrence Townsend, are among the smartest affairs in the National Capital. Miss Grace Moore, soprano, was the guest artist Wednesday.

After the musicale, Mrs. Cooper was entertained at a luncheon at the Roosevelt Hotel given by Mrs. Charles L. Gifford, Mrs. Charles L. Underhill, and Mrs. Frank H. Foss, all wives of Massachusetts congressmen.

Friday Mrs. Cooper attended the reception at the German Embassy given by the German Ambassador, Herr Friedrich W. von Prittwitz und Gaffron, and Frau von Prittwitz und Gaffron.

Saturday she attended the reception in honor of the retiring British Ambassador, Sir Esme Howard, and Lady Isabella Howard, given by Mrs. Cabot Stevens.

Miss Katharine Lenroot, assistant chief of the Children's Bureau of the United States Department of Labor and daughter of Judge and Mrs. Irvine L. Lenroot of Superior, returned to Washington Thursday from a business trip to Florida.

A large number of Wisconsin women attending the Woman's Patriotic Conference on National Defense were Mrs. John C. Schafer's guests at the Congressional club tea and musicale January 29.

Mrs. Schafer is the wife of Representative Schafer of Milwaukee. Her guests included Mrs. Harry Slater of Milwaukee, President of the Pershing Chapter of American War Mothers; Mrs. Thomas Spence of Milwaukee, former National President of American War Mothers; Mrs. Frank Schaefer of Neenah; Mrs. Litchfield; Mrs. F. R. Melcher of Madison; Mrs. William Cudworth of Milwaukee; Mrs. Adeline Macaulay of Menominee, formerly National President of American Legion Auxiliary; and Mrs. Catherine McRay of Milwaukee who was here to attend the hearing on the Star Spangled Banner bill before the Judiciary Committee.

Other Wisconsin women here for the defense conference were Mrs. Helen K. Stuart of Neenah; Mrs. Charles Snover of Fort Atkinson; Mrs. Herbert Love and Mrs. Elizabeth Martin, both of Milwaukee.

Mrs. Henry Allen Cooper is one of a distinguished list of congressional women who are acting as hostesses and patronesses at a series of education puppet shows for children being given on Saturdays at the League of American Penwomen's clubhouse.

The puppets were made and are manipulated by young Theodore Tiller 2d, who also wrote many of the plays which he presents.

The two shows given Saturday were "The Elf and The Toadstool" and "From the Depths of Fuji Yama."

Dr. William F. Notz, formerly of Watertown and Dean of the School of Foreign Service at Georgetown University, and Mrs. Notz entertained at dinner Saturday in honor of the Minister of Rumania, Charles A. Devila.

Their guests included Senator Don Oscar Blanco Viel, first secretary of the ChElean Legation; Dr. Jan Papanek, secretary of the Czechoslovakian Legation, and Mrs. Papanek; Dr. Andrei Popovici, secretary of the Rumanian Legation, and Mrs. Popovici; Dr. Nillo Idman, secretary of the Finnish Legation; Reverend Dr. W. Coleman Nevils, President of Georgetown University, and Dr. Jorga, President of the University of Bucharest, and Mrs. Jorga, who are guests of Minister Devila at the Legation.

Dr. and Mrs. Notz were guests at a reception at the Rumanian Legation Sunday at which Dr. Jorga lectured on the art of Rumania, stressing particularly the architecture. His lecture was illustrated by slides. Representatives and Mrs. Henry Allen Cooper were also guests at this reception.

Dr. and Mrs. Notz attended a luncheon at the Rumanian Legation Monday and met Dr. and Mrs. Jorga more personally. Dr. Jorga and Dr. Notz found that they had studied history under the same professor at the University of Leipzig. Dr. Jorga specializes in history, the history of art, of nations, of politics, indeed, in all its phases.

Later in the afternoon Monday, Dr. and Mrs. Notz were guests at a tea given by Dr. Jan Skalicky, counselor of the Czechoslovakian Legation.

The Congressional Club entertained at its Friday tea by Miss Anna B. Gallup, the head of the Brooklyn Children's Museum.

Mrs. Henry Allen Cooper, Mrs. James A. Frear, wife of Representative Frear of Hudson, and Mrs. John C. Schafer were among the Wisconsin members present.

Mrs. Cooper, who is a founder and incorporator of the club and the senior Wisconsin member, has never missed a meeting in the 21 years of the club's existence.

Captain and Mrs. P. M. Anderson, formerly of Madison and Augusta, Wis., entertained a party of eight at dinner and bridge Saturday night.

Friday evening they attended the American University Woman's Guild dinner. It was a very brilliant affair entitled "Dinner in a Garden," with the entertainment taking the form of a "Book Review."

Mrs. Anderson was a member of the committee preparing for the dinner and was hostess of the "Voltaire table."

Dr. and Mrs. D. O. Kinsman and Miss Mary Louise Brown, all formerly of Appleton, were also present.

Thursday, Captain and Mrs. Anderson attended the dinner at the Burlington for the committee on the Lutheran College drive in which they are very much interested.

Karl A. Albrecht, formerly of Appleton and a member of the Milwaukee Harbor Commission, was in the Capital for a few days last week on a business trip and then went on to Philadelphia.

Mr. Albrecht gave an address on Milwaukee commerce and industry and port development before the class in marketing at the Georgetown school of Foreign Service. He was introduced by Dr. William F. Notz, Dean of the School.

Mr. Albrecht graduated from the Georgetown School of Foreign Service in 1923.

Mrs. John J. Esch, wife of the former Interstate Commerce Commissioner from La Crosse, was one of the hostesses at the regular luncheon of the Guild of the Mount Pleasant Congregational Church Wednesday.

Mrs. Ralph Smith and Mrs. Fritzel are two other Wisconsin women who belong to the Guild.

The German Ambassador, Herr Friedrich W. von Prittwitz und Gaffron, and Frau von Prittwitz und Gaffron sent out single invitations to two receptions at the Embassy, the first on January 31, and the second last Friday.

Dr. and Mrs. Notz were among the guests at both receptions.

Mrs. John C. Schafer and Miss Betty McAllister, daughter of Colonel McAllister U. S. M. C., were guests at the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis Saturday and attended the boxing meet between the Naval Academy "united" and the University of New Hampshire boxers.

Miss Louise Brown of Milwaukee was in Washington for a few days last week on a sightseeing trip. She called on Representative and Mrs. John C. Schafer.

Another Milwaukee visitor at Representative Schafer's office last week was Henry F. Tyrrell who is spending the winter in Asheville, N. C.

12 SCOUTS GIVEN BADGES AT FIRST COURT OF HONOR

Clark and Ladner in Charge of Ceremonies for Legion
Troop

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—The first formal Court of Honor of the New London troop of the Boy Scouts of America was conducted at the American Legion hall on Monday night. M. G. Clark, scout executive of the Valley Council, with Dr. E. J. Ladner, deputy commissioner, were present. Twelve boys, comprising Patrol 3 of American Legion troop were given their second class scout tests by Commissioner Putnam, while members of the Legion and fathers of the boys presented the pins which are worn by scouts of this rank.

Boys receiving their pins were Kenneth Penny, John Dessel, Donald Clifton, Jack Case, William Block, Clifton Fonstad, Robert Laux, Gordon Roepke, Bobby Ullrich, Harold Buss, Forest Brown and Alvin Brault. Mr. Clark gave a short talk in which he stressed the meaning of scouting. It is not the uniform you wear," he admonished his hearers, "it is not the teachings of the scoutmasters that matters most. The most important part of being a scout goes on in the heart of the boy himself." Dr. Ladner's discourse dealt with various matters pertaining to scout duties. Commander Boardman of the Norris Spencer Post, also addressed the boys asking that they heed the words of the scoutmasters, and live up to the oaths just taken. Other informal talks were given by Chauncey Kellogg, scoutmaster, David Egan, scout commissioner, and Albert Miller, athletic director.

CLOSE QUARTERLY CHURCH CONFERENCE

Reports of Various Affiliated Groups Heard at Last Meeting

Special to Post-Crescent
Forest Junction—Meeting for the last time during the present conference year which closes in May, members of the quarterly conference at Zion Evangelical church disposed of annual business matters Saturday afternoon.

Statistical reports of 1935 from the Sunday school, Christian Endeavor, Woman's Missionary, and Ladies' Aid societies were heard and discussed, while discussions of financial matters centered about the annual reports of the circuit trustees and the board of stewards.

Anticipated repairs on the district parsonage at Appleton are to be included in the budget for the ensuing year. The valuation figure on the district camp ground here was raised by the conference to account for the headquarters building erected on the grounds last summer. Elections resulted in the succession of Fred Seybold to a vacancy on the board of stewards occasioned by the removal from here of O. R. Franke; and the reelection of William Hacker to the board of circuit trustees for five years.

A sermon on the development and education of children preceded the conference session and was preached by the district presiding elder, the Rev. Philip Schneider of Appleton.

"WONDERFUL IS HEALTH THAT KONJOLA GAVE"

Freed of Triple Ailment—Lady Pays Fine Tribute to New and Different Medicine

MRS. A. F. BOTTENFIELD

"Wonderful is the health that Konjola gave me," said Mrs. A. F. Bottenfield, 214 First avenue, East, Cedar Rapids. "I was discouraged and without hope after suffering for a year from rheumatism, indigestion and kidney trouble. My knees were mostly affected, and were swollen and stiff. My ankles, too, were swollen, and it became very difficult for me to walk. During the night my sleep was disturbed by irregular bladder action. My back ached, and gas on my stomach after meals made eating a horror."

"I was hardly prepared for the surprise Konjola gave me after everything else I tried had failed. The first bottle made a wonderful change. I secured two more bottles and when they were gone the pains, stiffness and swelling had vanished; digestion was restored, and kidneys functioning properly. Today I am enjoying fine health."

Konjola is sold in Appleton at Schmitz Bros. Drug Store and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

SNOW DRIFTS BLOCK ROADS; PLOWS BUSY

Traffic Greatly Hampered
North of Manawa; Motorists Marooned

Special to Post-Crescent
Manawa—County highway equipment was working overtime, Monday getting roads in shape for automobile travel after a high northwest wind the previous day had drifted shut all north and south roads and made travel difficult. Five foot drifts were encountered in several places and the huge plows had all they could do to clear the tightly packed snow.

Many motorists, lured by the fine weather the latter part of last week, had left home for trips over the weekend and were stranded with their cars. A number of machines had to be abandoned on Waupaca-co highways Sunday night while their owners waited for the plows to come through to clear the roads. Practically all main roads are now cleared for car travel. Train service was not impaired and the Green Bay and Western arrived at Manawa at the usual time, Monday morning.

HEALTH CLINIC FEB. 14

Since Manawa has become a county health center, parents of children of pre-school age will have greater opportunities than ever before to safeguard the health of their sons and daughters. The next local clinic will be held in room at the First National bank building, Friday afternoon, Feb. 14. Dr. R. K. Irvine will be the examining physician, assisted by Mrs. Hazel Barton, public health nurse of Waupaca-co, and members of the Manawa Woman's club.

NEW LONDON FIRM BUYS KRAUT PLANT

Company at Shiocton Sells
Its Holdings to Hamilton
Canning Co.

Special to Post-Crescent
Shiocton—The Shiocton kraut plant owned and operated for some time by the Green Bay Products company, was recently purchased by the Hamilton and Sons Canning company of New London.

The deal, which was closed about two weeks ago, has just been made public.

The Shiocton plant consists of two large buildings, which provided quarters for cutting the cabbages for the vats and for storage.

The plant in the past has been operating as a producer of built sausage, being packed in barrels for a shipmen, but the new firm expects to add equipment for canning the product. The operations of the Shiocton plant, according to a statement given by the new firm, will be materially increased and employment will be given from 100 to 150 workers.

Mr. Hamilton also states that he plans to develop the Shiocton plant into an important brand of the New London institution.

PRESENT PAGEANT AT DISTRICT SCHOOL MEET

Special to Post-Crescent
Leeman—The pageant Grand Mothers Dream, which was given Friday evening at the Sunset school, was well attended. After the pageant a chili supper was served. The men of the district will give a program March 7. Those on the committee are Laurel Cavinier, Boy Bowerman, and Walter Andrews.

A daughter was born recently to Mr. and Mrs. Donovan Nagreen. Anton Honish, proprietor of the White Lily Cheese factory is putting in his year's supply of ice. Patrons are doing the hauling.

The postoffice at Shiocton has received word from the postal department at Washington, D. C., that a mail route would be established on Feb. 17 on County Trunk M, from County Trunk F as far as the Pleasant View school. Al Vanstratten is the mail carrier.

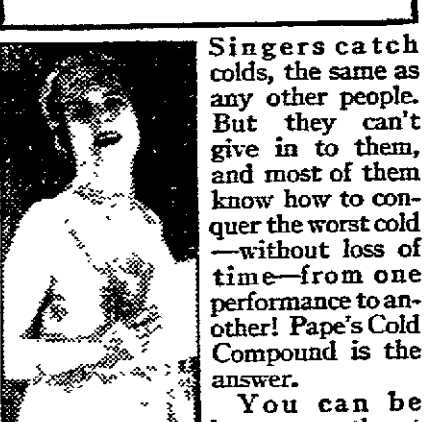

Miss Edna Dietzler spent the weekend at Chawano.

Mr. and Mrs. Joel Poole spent Saturday at Appleton.

BRANCH CHEESE GROUPS TO ATTEND STATE MEET

Special to Post-Crescent
Forest Junction—Local cooperative associations, which are branches of the National Cheese Producers' federation, are planning to be represented at the annual meeting of the latter at Madison on Wednesday and Thursday. It is expected that the local branches will be officially represented by their presidents, who later give reports of the gathering to their constituents. Delegations from here will probably proceed to Jymouth from where a special bus service to Madison has been arranged for the National meeting. While branch factories of the National have been postponing their annual meetings until after the Madison gathering, some open market factories here have already had their meetings.

FATHERS AND SONS DINE TOGETHER AT KAUKAUNA TONIGHT

Annual Banquet Will Be Served at Hotel Kaukauna at 6:45

Kaukauna—Final preparations for the father and son banquet tonight have been made. It will begin promptly at 6:45 in the dining hall of the Hotel Kaukauna. The advance ticket sales indicate a crowd of about 180 persons.

Prof. Rexford Mitchell, assistant to the president of Lawrence college, will be the principal speaker. R. M. Hadsch will be toastmaster. Dr. C. D. Boyd will talk from the standpoint of a father and Harold Peters from the standpoint of a son. The subject of the talk by Prof. Mitchell will be Father and Son. Innovation will be given by the Rev. F. Melchior of Holy Cross Catholic church, and benediction will be given by the Rev. E. Worthman, pastor of Immanuel Reformed church.

The banquet is being sponsored by the Kaukauna boy scout troop committee. Members of the committee are John Klesien, Olin G. Dryer, Ron Nelson, the Rev. Herbert J. Lane, William F. Ashe and Charles D. Towles. M. G. Clark, Appleton, valley scout executive, has been invited.

HAGMAN PUSHES PLANS FOR MID-WINTER FAIR

Kaukauna—Although no speakers have been engaged for the Mid-Winter fair here Feb. 26, 27 and 28, the general program was arranged by W. P. Hagman, fair chairman, last week while at Madison. No farm talks will be given on Thursday. The judge awarding the prizes on the exhibits will explain why the different prizes were awarded. Two speakers on farm problems will be scheduled for Friday. A woman demonstrator will be on the program for either Thursday or Friday afternoon. Preparations also are being made to show a movie.

DEBATERS WILL MEET MENASHA AND WAUPACA

Kaukauna—Kaukauna high school debaters will meet Menasha and Waupaca high school in the second round of debates on the installment buying question. Notices were received here Monday and the debates are to take place before Feb. 15. The local school won the first round of debates with both teams, taking victories over Sturgeon Bay and Algoma.

WAUPUN INTERESTED IN MID-WINTER FAIR

Kaukauna—That the Mid-Winter fair to be staged here in a few weeks is attracting interest elsewhere besides Kaukauna is shown in a letter received here from the Waupun Chamber of Commerce by W. P. Hagman, chairman of the fair committee. The letter requested a program of the fair and detailed information.

SHE WILL TALK ABOUT HAITI TO ROTARIANS

Kaukauna—William Ashe will be the principal speaker at the Rotary club meeting Wednesday noon at Hotel Kaukauna. He will speak on Haiti. Mr. Ashe spent a number of months there about 12 years ago.

$58,000 IN TAXES IS COLLECTED UP TO DATE

Kaukauna—Approximately $58,000 has been collected in taxes by Joseph H. Dietzler, city treasurer so far. About $278,000 must be collected. March 1 is the time limit for payment.

STATE BOARD ENDORSES SCARLET FEVER SERUM

Madison—(AP)—The state board of health today endorsed scarlet fever serum in a statement sent by Dr. C. A. Harper to a Wisconsin official.

Scarlet fever serum is undoubtedly valuable in the treatment of active cases of scarlet fever. Dr. Harper said, "especially those with a temperature of 101-102 or 103 or over. If administered early, the results are usually most satisfactory. The state board of health therefore recommends the use of scarlet fever serum for the treatment of cases of scarlet fever."

The immunization, the passive immunization—that is the administration of half of a therapeutic dose—lasts only from nine to 14 or 15 days. Its use is of value, undoubtedly, when a child is in contact with a serious case of scarlet fever and is going to be removed immediately from further contact.

"The active immunization is only fairly satisfactory. The reactions in many cases are very marked and therefore discouraging. It frequently takes four or five doses to immunize an individual actively. We therefore do not advise such procedure as a routine. The active immunization has no value in immediate immunization of a child that has been exposed to scarlet fever."

Dance at Darboy, Thurs.

The Post-Crescent's representative at Kaukauna is Lloyd Derus. His telephone number is 194-W. Business with The Post-Crescent may be transacted through Mr. Derus.

HAGMAN IS APPOINTED ON SCHOOL COMMITTEE

Kaukauna—W. P. Hagman, principal of the Outagamie Rural Normal school, has been appointed on a committee to make a study of the county normal school situation with the view of recommending a forward looking program for schools. William Price of Richland Center was appointed committee chairman. Appointment of the committee is the result of a motion passed at a meeting of the state normal principals at Madison last week.

SCHOOL ANNUAL THEME IS POWER

Year Book Will Outline History of Kaukauna Power Plant

Kaukauna—Power will be the theme of the high school year book which is being published by the senior class this year. The theme of last year's book was aviation. The dedication of the book, the committee in charge reports, will be made soon.

Power in the form of electricity and water, for which the city is noted, will be stressed. The annual will give a history of the municipal power plant here. Miss Ethelyn Handran is the faculty advisor.

A novel way of paying for the books by the students was introduced a few years ago by Principal Olin G. Dryer through the school banking system. At regular intervals a fixed amount is removed from the bank accounts of the students pledged to buy copies of the yearbook. In this way the student purchases the book without much noticeable strain on his pocket book. The system is being introduced in other schools in the state.

Committees in charge of the various work of collecting material for the book are busy and much material is turned in. Class pictures and individual pictures of the senior class have been completed. For the past few years the yearbook has received an all American rating.

Social Items

Kaukauna—Postal Welfare association met Monday evening at the postoffice. After the meeting lunch was served.

The miscellaneous committee of Brokaw Memorial Methodist Episcopal church will serve a chicken pie supper from 5 to 8 o'clock Wednesday evening in Epworth Home.

A mock trial was presented at a meeting of the Knights of Columbus, Monday evening in K. of C. hall on Wisconsin-ave by a group of Appleton Knights. After the meeting lunch was served.

Junior Christian Endeavor of Immanuel Reformed church met Monday evening in the church assembly.

The Woman's Missionary society of Immanuel Reformed church met at the home of Mrs. A. Stegeman at 2:30 Thursday afternoon.

KAUKAUNA PERSONALS

Kaukauna—Misses Elizabeth and Margaret Birong of Madison spent the week-end here.

Miss Virginia Faust, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Faust, is in St. Elizabeth hospital where she is recovering from an operation for appendicitis.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Baumann and son, Florian, route 4, Appleton, and Victor Baumann and Ervin Velt, Milwaukee spent Friday with Mr. and Mrs. Nick Fox, Jr., Kaukauna.

Talks To Parents

Laissez Faire BY ALICE JUDSON PEALE

There is much to be said for the policy of leaving children to work out their own social difficulties. The child who makes his own friends, settles his own quarrels and learns to hold his own on the street is being trained for life in a realistic school.

The child who spends all his time in a situation so controlled that he never meets overwhelming odds, that he never knows cruelty or rank injustice, is sheltered to a degree which will unfit him to meet normal hardships of life.

On the other hand, the child constantly subjected to an environment too strenuous must suffer lopsided development. He becomes excessively tender or excessively callous. Always at a disadvantage he grows to be the sort of person who winces for protection or a bully.

Perhaps the best solution of this problem of the protected environment versus the unprotected one is to let the child emerge gradually from the first into the second.

The child who spends most of his days in school and on the playground under the watchful eye of an understanding teacher may be exposed for a few hours on Saturdays and Sundays to the unselected children of his neighborhood. He can be allowed to take with a reasonable assurance of healthy results whatever knocks come his way.

Always in these matters it is easier to generalize than to say what is wise in any specific instance, but it is helpful at least to be aware of the merits of both sorts of environment.

Rome—Italy has only five telephone subscribers for each 1,000 inhabitants as compared with 150 a thousand in the United States. Two-thirds of the lines in this country are served by automatic dial instruments.

FARMERS ASK AGENT FOR SOIL SURVEYS

14 Want Complete Surveys and 24 Others Want Partial Surveys

As one of the results of discussions of soil fertilization and its relation to the raising of alfalfa, sweet clover and larger yields per acre of other crops, at the Hortonville Farmers' Institute, County Agent Gus Seli has received 14 applications from farmers for complete soil surveys of their farms and 24 for partial surveys.

The soil surveys which are open to any farmer and will be conducted on application to the county agent, are made by the soils department of the Wisconsin College of Agriculture at a cost to the owner of the farm of about $5. These surveys are a great saving to a farmer who is planning on using fertilizer of any kind as after they are made the farmer knows just what fertilizer his field need if any and is protected against the purchase of the wrong kind or amount.

Several farmers of Outagamie county have already had soil surveys of their farms made and are proposing to set out on a long term plan of restoring their farm to the original condition of productivity.

Any other farmers who wish to have a soil survey of their farms made or the soils of certain fields analyzed should make application to the county agent.

SINGAPORE LIKES MOTION PICTURES

Magnate of Far East Companies Deal to Buy Radio Pictures

BY EILEEN CREEZMAN Motion Picture Editor of the New York Sun

New York—(CPA)—Joe Fischer, motion picture magnate of the far east, left Saturday for his home in Singapore, elated because he has made a deal to buy radio pictures for release in the Malay islands.

"Singapore is a large city now and not at all uncivilized, as you might guess from seeing Hollywood movies," said Mr. Fischer. "The natives like motion pictures. They take them seriously, get excited over the dramatic scenes and about warnings to the hero about the villain."

"I don't know what we shall do with the talkies. In Singapore where we're building a 2,000 seat house, we're putting in loudspeakers, of course the natives won't be able to understand English. They can't even understand the dialogue of the neighboring province, but they may like the music. We'll have to explain the plot and characters of the talkies and try to calm the audience when it grows too excited."

Because the natives are taught to revere white women, he said no films in any way belittling women of a woman are permitted to be shown. Mr. Fischer cut three reels of "The Merry Widow" and married off the prince and actress early in the picture rather than get into trouble with the government.

PRINCE ENDS ANOTHER LAP ON HUNTING TRIP

Millindini, Kenya Colony, British East Africa—(AP)—The prince of Wales arrived here today aboard the liner Modassa. He had recovered from a recent cold. It was not known how long he would remain at Mombasha, before departing on his East African safari. He left Berlin, Portuguese Africa, Feb. 5.

There was no official ceremony at the landing of the prince. He drove in a taxi to the government house at Mombasha where Governor Sir Edward Grigg welcomed him.

HOBBO CAMP

London—Eric Muspratt, son of an English minister, is claiming the hobbo championship of the world. He has bunned his way into cannibal islands in the Pacific, hunted the man-eating aborigines of Australia, and roamed in all kinds of places, from Indian wharves to bath tubs in exclusive hotels. He's been on the "bum" for 14 years.

Every morning take one half teaspoon of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water before breakfast.

Be sure and do this every morning for "It's the little daily dose that takes off the fat." Don't miss a morning.

The Kruschen patent means that every particle of poisonous waste matter and harmful acids and gases are expelled from the system.

At the same time the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels are toned up and the pure, fresh blood containing Nature's six life-giving salts are carried to every organ, gland, nerve and fibre of the body and this is followed by "that Kruschen feeling" of energetic health and activity that is reflected in bright eyes, clear skin, cheerful vivacity and charming figure.

Get an 85c bottle of Kruschen Salts at Schlitz Bros., 3 stores, or any drug store (costs 4 weeks) with the distinct understanding that you must be satisfied with results or money back.

Edison "Surprise Party" Will Mark 83rd Birthday

February 11 Thomas A. Edison will be 83 years old. The bas-relief portraits of Mr. and Mrs. Edison are from a plaque to be presented by Fort Myers, Fla., neighbors.

Fort Myers, Fla.—(AP)—Thomas A. Edison's eighty-third birthday, says Fort Myers, is going to be "our day," too.

Those who have known the aging wizard as a winter neighbor, since 1885 will make the anniversary, Feb. 11, a community affair by unveiling an illuminated bronze plaque bearing bas-relief likenesses of Mr. and Mrs. Edison.

Set in beautiful Evans park on a solid base of natural shell rock and artificial stone, the plaque commemorates the fiftieth anniversary of Edison's creation of the incandescent light. It bears heads of Mr. and Mrs. Edison.

The plaque was intended to be somewhat of a surprise—and it was. Maurice Kidel, Fort Myers sculptor, worked on the monument for weeks before the ceremonies were announced. Edison's birthday anniversary.

In keeping with its motif, the plaque will be illuminated perpetually by lights hidden in the masonry.

Dedication of the plaque will break the birthday routine Mr. Edison has followed for years.

HEMP EXPERIMENTS PROVE SUCCESSFUL

Madison—(AP)—In an effort to obtain greater uniformity in time of maturity and height of growth in hemp, Prof. A. H. Wright, University of Wisconsin agronomist, working with the United States Department of Agriculture, has found breeding to be an effective method.

He says the work of three years indicates that a 16-day earlier maturity date can be obtained and the method is usable in the production districts of hemp for commercial planting area of Wisconsin.

The Ferramington variety of hemp has been used most in the experiments, Prof. Wright says.

MOTHERS now learn value of MAGNESIA

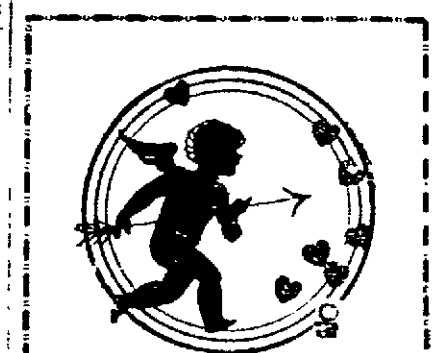

Because it is so helpful in keeping babies and children healthy and happy, every mother should know a little about Phillips Milk of Magnesia.

This harmless, almost tasteless preparation is most effective in relieving those symptoms of indigestion and children generally caused by souring food in the little digestive tract, such as sour-belching, frequent vomiting, feverishness, colic. As a mild laxative, it acts gently, but certainly, to open the little bowels in constipation, colds, children's diseases.

A teaspoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia does the work of half a pint of lime water in neutralizing cow's milk for infant feeding, and preventing hard curds. Its many uses for mother and child are fully explained in the interesting book "Useful Information" It will be sent you, FREE. Write The Phillips Co., 117 Hudson St., New York, N. Y.

In buying, be sure to get genuine Phillips Milk of Magnesia. Doctors have prescribed it for over 50 years. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Chas. H. Phillips Chemical Co. and its predecessor, Chas. H. Phillips, since 1875.

MARCONED SKIPPER FIGHTS PNEUMONIA

Plane Will Take Russian Captain to Seattle for Hospital Care

Nome, Alaska—(AP)—Convalescing from pneumonia which he battled with crude medical equipment while marooned through the winter on his ship in the frozen Arctic ocean, the Russian captain, P. G. Milozorov, was waiting here today for a plane to take him on another leg of his journey to the "outside."

With him were Marion Swenson, 17-year-old girl who lived through the winter on the ice-bound American ship Nanuk, and her father, Captain Olaf Swenson, both looking forward to their return home to Seattle. Captain Milozorov will enter a clinic in Seattle for further medical examination.

The three were brought here by plane from North Cape, Siberia, where the Russian supply steamer Stavropol and the Nanuk are frozen in. Pilot Pat Reid planned to take off here yesterday on a 500-mile return flight with supplies for the Nanuk and gasoline for the planes being used in the search for the bodies of the fliers Carl Den Elson and Earl Lorland, but bad weather prevented.

For at North Cape prevented Pilot Joe Crosson from going to the scene of Elson's wrecked plane, which crashed 90 miles from his goal when he was flying from Alaska to the Nanuk early last November. Searchers, who built a temporary camp at the wreck scene began hunting for the bodies more than two weeks ago. For several days flights to their camp have been impossible so no news has been received concerning progress of the search.

EXPERTS BUSY IN CHICAGO'S MONEY CRISIS

Economists Will Present Program to Emmerson for Action by Solons

Chicago—(AP)—Political science rapped at the door of Chicago's shattered structure today.

A number of economists who have been delving quietly into the question expect within a week to present a plan of emergency relief also intended to prevent a recurrence of the crisis in which the local governments now find themselves. It was understood that the political scientists, headed by Prof. Charles E. Merriam of the University of Chicago, were working in cooperation with the Citizens' Relief committee, organized by Silas H. Strawn, and that their program was to be presented Gov. Louis L. Emmerson as the basis of consideration for a special session of the legislature.

Governor Emmerson had indicated that whenever a definite plan is agreed upon, he will call the special session.

Associates of Merriam include: Prof. Samuel E. Leland, University of Chicago economist, who for nearly a decade served as financial advisor for the state of Kentucky; Prof. Herbert D. Simpson of Northwestern university; and Harris Keeler, director of the bureau of public education, sponsored by Julius Rosenwald.

Although the details of the economists' program have not been disclosed, it was understood that it will consist of two principal recommendations:

FIRST, retirement of the $280,000,000 indebtedness of the various local governments, either by a long-term bond issue or a sinking fund; and the establishment of a unified fiscal year for the governments with a budget system aimed at preventing expenditures in excess of actual revenue.

The economists maintain that while the delay in tax collections, due to reassessment, "precipitated the present crisis," its roots have been traced to "frenzied finances" as the underlying cause.

"I Feel Like A New Man Since Taking Dreco"

Says "Backaches And Rheumatism Soon Left Him"

Dreco continues to grow in popularity with men and women in this section. Judging from the sales and the many reports reaching the makers of this new and different medicine.

Mr. Leo Benotch, 300 Taylor St., Kaukauna, Wis., tells you in his own words just what "Dreco" did for him. He said: "I was afraid to eat a square meal for fear of indigestion and gas attacks that would cause a pressure around my heart that would make me short of breath. Rheumatism had settled in my legs and across my back. Every muscle and joint in my body would ache when I went to bed at night, sleep was impossible before I took a treatment of this new Dreco tonic. I had only taken Dreco for four weeks when all the pain and aches left me, now I am free from constipation, and will always be a firm booster for Dreco."

CAR CRASHES THROUGH ICE ON LAKE SUPERIOR

Jacobsville, Mich.—(AP)—Escaping drowning when their automobile crashed through the ice on Lake Superior near here yesterday, an unidentified party of motorists wrote a note that "we will take the car out when we get good and ready" and disappeared in another automobile.

The car, with but one wheel sticking out of the water, crashed into the lake. One of the men, retrieved the hood, placed it on the ice and left the unsigned note under it. The note read: "This car belongs to Mike Jutila of Hubble. We are out fishing at Slattery's camp and we will take the car out when we get good and ready."

The denial came from Corporation Counsel Samuel Ettelson, the mayor's closest advisor.

Thompson has persistently balked at negotiations with the Strawn group and has termed the members of the relief committee "reformers who have tried to wreck my administration."

H. Wallace Caldwell, president of the school board, was expected home today from New York where he was unsuccessful in an attempt to sell tax warrants.

Strawn was also due to arrive today from the east. He was faced with an ultimatum from the county board that unless financial aid is forthcoming within the current week, the board will issue scrip to pay its employees.

The Strawn group has opposed such action.

States Working To Cut Down Illiteracy Marks

Washington—(AP)—A race with the census taker is being waged by all states to blot out high illiteracy records by April 1.

For the first time the 1930 census will list the names and addresses of all illiterates with the state superintendents of education.

Five southern states, where the illiteracy percentage is highest—Louisiana, Georgia, South Carolina, Mississippi and Alabama—are putting forth the greatest efforts in the race.

Word has gone out through the cotton fields and along the bayous. Late lights are flickering in countless school rooms. Louisiana, which had the highest illiteracy record of all the states in the 1920 census—31.5 per cent—is working to remove the stigma. Georgia raised a fund of $20,000 by private subscription and is putting on a campaign. South Carolina has 110 night schools running in one county.

Mrs. Cora Wilson Stewart, director of the National Illiteracy crusade, predicted that as a result of the strenuous efforts of these backward states to overcome their illiteracy handicaps the coming census may reveal a surprising change.

Iowa, with 1.1 per cent illiterates, snatched first place from Nebraska in 1920. Nebraska is working to recapture the honor, and North Dakota, due to an illiteracy campaign of the last four years, is forging ahead.

Mrs. Stewart predicted the coming census would reveal a reduction in the country's illiteracy from five to two or two and one-half millions.

Mrs. Stewart started the moonlight schools in Kentucky. She is chairman of the executive committee of President Hoover's National Advisory committee on illiteracy.

SLEUTHS NAB BANDIT SUSPECT IN CHICAGO

Chicago—(AP)—Wanted in Council Bluffs, Iowa, as a bank robber suspect, Freddie Dunn, 25, described as an ex-convict, was arrested by Chicago detectives today as he stepped off a bus from Iowa. Taken into custody with him was Miss Alice Morton, 20.

Detectives said Dunn tried to draw a revolver as they accosted him but was overpowered by the officers. At police headquarters it was found that Dunn carried $500 in cash, $2,500 in stock certificates, $25 in gold, and a .33 calibre revolver.

Dunn's arrest followed the receipt of a telegram from M. E. Farley, chief of detectives at Sioux City, Iowa, who warned Chicago police that Dunn was due here on the bus.

Washington—They do things better in the Philippines than in Chicago, it seems. Felipe Mablangan, student, was testifying to a senate committee of the Philippines' fitness for liberty. "I see that Chicago is busted," he said. "That could not happen in the Philippines, or our leaders would have to take to the mountains."

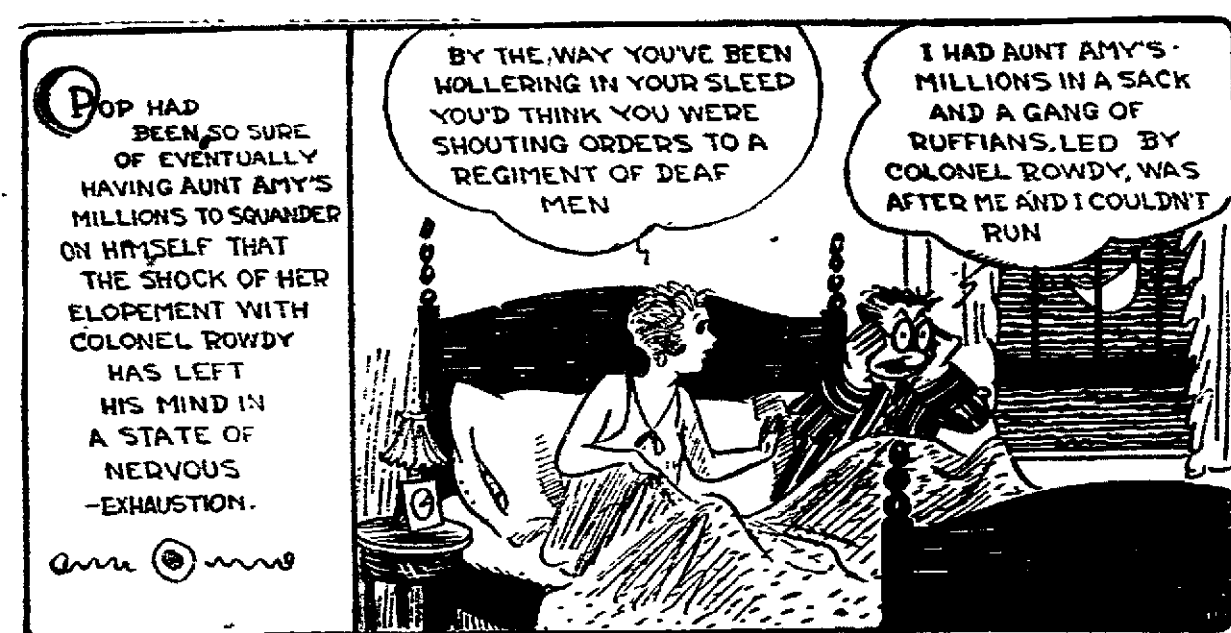

handicaps the coming census may reveal a surprising change. Iowa, with 1.1 per cent illiterates, snatched first place from Nebraska in 1920. Nebraska is working to recapture the honor, and North Dakota, due to an illiteracy campaign of the last four years, is forging ahead.

Mrs. Stewart predicted the coming census would reveal a reduction in the country's illiteracy from five to two or two and one-half millions.

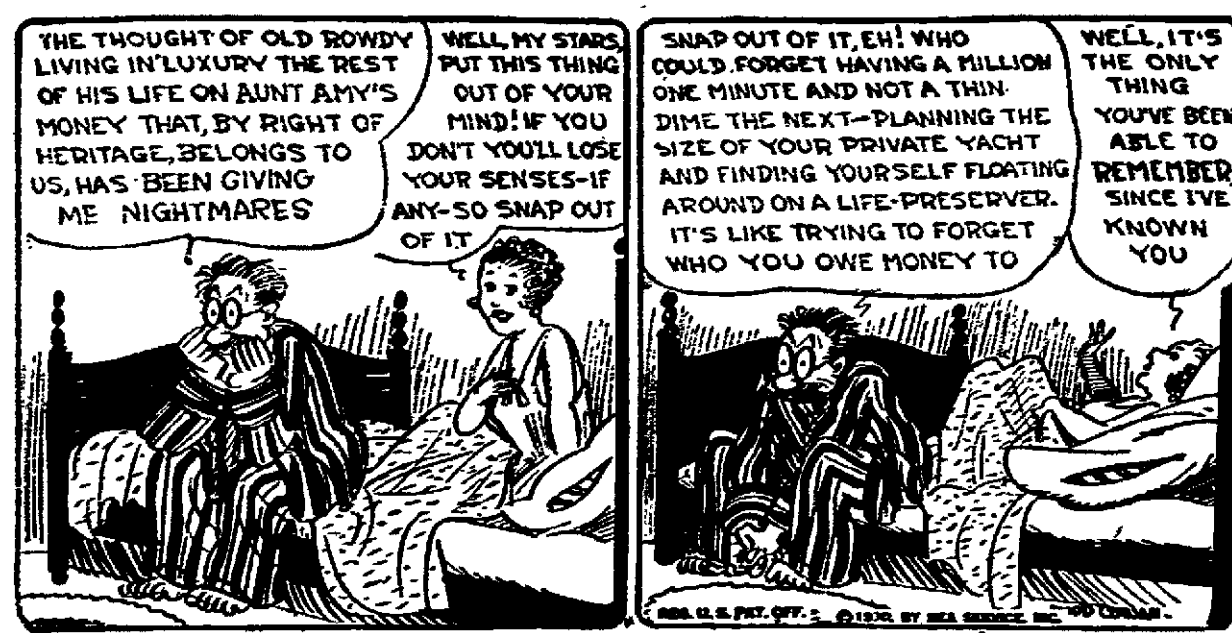

Mrs. Stewart started the moonlight schools in Kentucky. She is chairman of the executive committee of President Hoover's National Advisory committee on illiteracy.

THE SNAKE'S VICTIM

Chapter 34

When Peggy awoke she found herself lying on the couch, and Julia holding a bottle of smelling salts under her nose. So far as she could see, Obadiah Evans was the only other person in the living room.

"Feeling better," he asked solicitously. "I'm thinking you'd best go upstairs and let Julia put you to bed."

Her sense of exhaustion from her experiences underground was wearing off, but she craved the society of others. The very thought of being alone struck terror to her soul. "Did you get there in time?" she asked. "Is the snake dead?"

Her question carried to Sheriff Beach and he crossed the room just as the key turned to the front door and Jim stepped inside. The look in Peggy's eyes arrested the words upon his lips. With ever-whitening face he stared down at her as Beach stopped at her elbow.

"You called out just now, Miss Prescott," began the sheriff, paying no attention to Obadiah's signal to him to remain silent, "to get your gun in the desk drawer. I've done so"—he held up her uncle's automatic pistol that all in the little group might see it. "How many guns did you have when you came to Yew lodge?"

"None" was her low response.

"How many guns did you find here?" demanded Sheriff Beach for the second time. "Answer, Miss Prescott, and tell the truth."

"One."

"And that one"—Beach took from his pocket the .38 caliber automatic and held both pistols extended toward her—"was which, Miss Prescott? The .38 caliber or the .45 caliber? Which one of these guns did you fire at Edgar Stanton?"

"I fired the .45 caliber," she admitted, her fingers twining in and around the edges of the blanket. Julia had tossed over her. She looked at the sheriff. "You picked up the other one that morning."

"And to whom did this other automatic pistol belong?" quickly.

Peggy moistened her dry lips. "That's for you to find out," she said simply and closed her eyes. She had kept faith with Jim—to the last.

Obadiah and Jim looked at each other and then away. A sudden stir in the other part of the room, the tramping of feet and subdued voices growing louder caused the men to turn about and Peggy rose, shakily and stared over the back of the intervening chairs at four men carrying an improvised stretcher, on which lay a figure covered with a sheet.

"Oh," she gasped, horrified, and shaking off Jim's hand, crossed the room. "Did the snake kill him?"

"Yes." It was Dr. Eastman who replied but Peggy failed to recognize him.

"My brother." The words were barely breathed and turning slightly Peggy found Chase at her elbow. He bit his lips to keep them from quivering. "Phlander went down the secret passage to look for you."

Peggy reached out an unsteady hand and clutched the person nearest her.

"He saved me," she exclaimed, her eyes big with awe and gratitude. "What became of the man with the horrible face?"

Sheriff Beach leaned over and jerked a reluctant figure to his feet. "He ain't pretty at any time," he remarked succinctly, "but with sulphur an' warpaint mixed, Sundown is some handsome bird. Cef up and face the lady."

Slowly the bent figure rose, grotesque in the brilliant light, but horrible in the darkness.

"You put the pistol in the soup tureen," she exclaimed incoherently. "And as for the canoe," Sundown grinned down at her. "Yes," he admitted, "I did."

"But why?" demanded Peggy, gazing at the half-breed in utter bewilderment. "I have never done anything to you."

"Lieutenant Stanton's orders," responded Sundown, stolidly. "He wanted to terrify you into leaving."

"For what purpose?" broke in Beach.

"So the house would be vacant and he could search for the secret chamber. I watched the foreigners Mr. Prescott used to build the passage and the chamber underground and I confided what I knew to Lieutenant Stanton."

"Then what?" prompted the sheriff.

"The lieutenant warned some information from Mr. Prescott; what I don't know," Sundown shrugged his shoulders. "He told me the old man had money, much money, in the secret room and he promised me half of all we found. I had not learned how to get it, although I tried—so hard."

"—So be you did," commented Obadiah, breaking his long silence. "So later you and the head devil fell out and you murdered Stanton in this room."

"I did not," Sundown stood erect, his eyes flashing. "Lieutenant Stanton sent the snake in a box that killed Mr. Prescott."

"What?" roared Beach.

Sundown nodded vigorously. "The box came to me through a trusty messenger," he said, "but I did not know what was in it. He hesitated before continuing. "I think much over it after we find the old man dying and I learn it was snake bite. The broken box is down in the secret room."

"Sure it is, and the snake, too—dead now," went on Obadiah, as no one spoke. "I'm thinking Mr. Prescott may have told Stanton to send him something of value that he wished to lock up in his vault below. The old gentleman unsuspectingly opened the box there, was bitten, contrived to get up here again, close the opening of the secret passage, and stagger outside where I was the first to reach him. He stopped and cleared his throat."

"Well, Sundown, you avenged the old man's death by killing Stanton."

"I did not," Sundown proclaimed his innocence for the second time, unwaveringly. "When I kill, I kill in fair fight."

"Even though you stoop to frighten on women and attempt to drown them," jeered Jim. "You dirty coward!"

Sundown flinched. "I did what I did as a job," he protested. "I swam near and would have saved Miss Prescott had not you come." He looked appealingly at Peggy. Straightening up he faced the others, his tone soft and winning. "That last night I overheard Mr. Prescott talking to himself. He said: 'I dare not take the risk—I dare not; Philander Chase will kill me if he can.' "That's a damn lie!" shouted Chase, his eyes blazing with fury. "You shan't stand there and slander my brother."

"Wait!" And Obadiah laid a restraining hand on the botanist's shoulder. "We'll clear your brother, never fear. Go on, Sundown; get the lines out of your system."

From inside his shirt Sundown took a leather wallet and handed it to the sheriff. "Mr. Prescott gave me that before he died," he explained. "The money I keep, as he said, but the paper is for Miss Prescott."

British And Americans Say Submarines Not Effective As Defensive Weapons—Urge Their Abolition

London—(AP)—The address of Secretary Stimson today before the plenary session of the five-power naval conference, in part follows:

"At the Washington conference in 1922, the American delegation accepted the view of their naval advisers and the United States needed a large submarine force. They were, therefore, opposed at that time to its abolition. Such a stand was based upon purely naval strategy, without weighing humanitarian considerations because the conference agreed that the submarine should not be used against commerce except under the same obligations relative to the safety of passengers and crew which apply to sailing craft."

"We all recognize that solution of our problems can be found only through a frank and friendly discussion. In setting forth the views of the American delegation, I want to make it clear that I am the first to recognize the sincerity of those who disagree with us. I am confident they will not take amiss anything I am about to say. Years of reflection have tended to crystallize the conviction through the world that submarine use of the submarine should cease. The American delegation believes that time has come for us to deal frankly with the question."

IS OFFENSIVE WEAPON

"We have sought to examine all aspects of this problem and have given careful study to the arguments which have been advanced in favor of retaining this weapon. They are so well known that I need do no more than mention them at this time."

"The argument that the submarine is a purely defensive weapon seems to us difficult to reconcile with the fact that it has been made of it at great distances from its home ports. The contention that it is a less costly weapon which affords a maximum of strategic value for a maximum of outlay must be considered in the light of the knowledge that the submarine is three or four times as costly ton for ton as the largest type of surface craft and approximately twice as costly as the largest ships of war. In addition, a nation requires a considerable number of submarines in order to secure effective dispersal. Furthermore, it must be remembered that the life of the submarine is only 13 years. Thus, we figure that the submarine is three or four times as costly as the largest types of ships. Furthermore, I feel that there is a very weighty argument to the effect that the construction and maintenance of submarines impose upon all navies higher levels in those classes of ships which are used against all submarines, namely destroyer and light cruisers."

"We cannot but feel that for this conference, called under such influences to sanction an instrument of war, the abuses of which were directed against the greatest of the western world into the greatest European war of history, would be a contradiction of purpose for which we have met."

"I am not speaking of theory. I am speaking of historical fact, and a fact which human experience shows is likely to be repeated."

USE CAN'T BE LIMITED

"The use of the submarine revolutionized the conduct of the world and the threat of its use against merchant ships was what finally determined the entry of my own country into the conflict. In the lifetime of our experience it seems clear that in any future war those who employ the submarine will be under strong temptation, perhaps irresistible temptation, to use it in the same way that is most effective for immediate purposes, regardless of belligerence. These considerations convince us that technical arguments should be set aside in order that the submarine may henceforth be abolished."

It seems to the American delegation that we have a common interest in the abolition of the submarine; first of all, for the purpose of supplying ourselves with weapons which we can forego by agreement and by the abolition of which we reduce our requirements in other classes of ships; and, second, for the purpose of eliminating for the future the dreadful experiences of the past."

U-Boat Use Is Defended By Japanese

London—(AP)—The text of the address of Admiral Hyo Takarabe, head of the Japanese admiralty, delivered today before the plenary session of the five-power naval conference follows in part:

"I am one of those who deem it most desirable that if war must be fought its destructive powers must be minimized, innocent lives spared, and valuable wealth conserved. I am most emphatically opposed to unlimited submarine warfare as was witnessed during the World war."

"But in one respect I must differ with some of the propositions put forward today by some of my esteemed colleagues. The merits of a submarine are not to be judged by what she does but by what she is. It is not a ruthless weapon to be condemned in contradiction to surface craft."

"For that matter, what weapons of war can be put to the merciless use of victimizing lives and property to no greater point? Let us take the most obvious instance. Flying machines are being developed day by day and are adding so much to the progress of peaceful communication, but at the same time they are proving formidable weapons and it is abused would offer a menace to the defenseless lives and property even more atrociously than submarines themselves."

HAS LEGITIMATE USE

"They have in one sense a wider range of action. They can, if so willed, play havoc, not only at sea but on land. Nothing can more clearly show the truth of the axiom that the sword will cut both ways. The submarine has its proper legitimate use."

"It is an appropriate medium of defense as a scout and an instrument to ward off any attack in adjacent waters of a country. Japan, consisting as she does of so many islands scattered so widely on a sea extending from the tropical to the frigid zones, sees in such a kind of arm a convenient and adequate means for providing for her national defense."

"With this comparatively inexpensive warfare she can continue to look after her extensive waterways and vulnerable points. Japan desires to retain submarines solely for these purposes."

"Japan will be second to none in giving her full support to an understanding to outlaw the illegitimate use of a legitimate and defensive agency of war."

BRITON POINTS TO HORRORS OF U-BOAT RAIDS DURING WAR

London—(AP)—The text of the address delivered by A. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty, before the naval conference today follows in part:

"I count it both an honor and a heavy responsibility to be entrusted with the task of introducing for discussion a proposition of my colleagues that the use of submarine vessels for purposes of war should be totally abolished."

"It is of course in no way a surprise proposal. It has been consistently urged by successive governments of this British monarchy and it will be remembered was specially pressed at the 1921 conference at Washington."

"I do not think it unreasonable to ask that steps may be taken to prevent a recurrence of such events before a generation which had experienced the use of that function of the submarine in the war. Direct knowledge is in control. I am aware of course that some of the powers represented at this conference have indicated some unwillingness to agree to the complete abolition of the submarine and we in this delegation do not for a single moment suggest that the desire of these powers to retain submarines implies in any way an intention to employ these vessels in a manner contrary to the laws of war. We clearly understand that their attitude in regard to this matter is based on their views as to the value of the submarine for purely defensive purposes, though quite frankly we feel these views to be mistaken."

NOT DEFENSIVE WEAPON

"The fact that some of our friends have this view on what they believe to be the defensive character of the submarine leads me to examine that view somewhat closely. I have already said that the war of 1914-1918 was the first in which submarine had been extensively used and it is well therefore to take note of the experience. I tell you frankly that although this country endeavored to use the submarine for coast defense and did not prevent the shelling of a number of towns and forts with heavy loss of civilian life and much material damage."

"We are convinced that there are not conditions under which submarines can act efficiently. On the surface they are not more than torpedo boats of slow speed—submerged they are either blind or of very limited vision. Our view therefore is that for purposes of coast defense the submarine is comparatively ineffectual in relation to what she costs both to build and maintain."

"On the other hand there can be little doubt from the experience of the war that the submarine is capable of and was used to a large extent for offensive operations."

"In thinking of the British navy alone, it would not be difficult to produce numbers of instances where both for reconnaissance and actual attack in narrow seas and harbors the submarine was effectively used in offensive actions. I have no doubt that other powers with their experience could further demonstrate this argument."

"May I point to the extent to which the submarine was used as a commerce raider during the war? I do not here dwell upon the repulsive feature of its use for that function with its lack of provision for the saving of life both of passengers and crews, but merely ask whether the extensive operations of the character in the late war were not offensive actions? Will not retention of these vessels in fact always constitute a danger that their employment in the hands of an unscrupulous enemy will lead to methods of attack which civilized nations regard with horror?"

"It may be said—and it not said—will be thought—that the proposal is one that is of special benefit to this country. That we are the most vulnerable as was shown in the last war and seek to safeguard ourselves from a danger that is far greater for us than for any other power. We do not desire to minimize the importance of this point of view to us but I would remind you that the other powers here represented also experienced heavy losses totaling over 2,000,000 tons and in addition the losses of neutral shipping in the last war exceeded 1,500,000 tons."

"If the balance of advantage appears to rest with us at present on that score what is the position if the submarine is regarded—as I have already indicated some regard it—as mainly a defensive weapon? From that point of view the British empire could show greater need for defensive vessels than any power having long lines of communication in every sea. Yet we are prepared unreservedly to surrender such defensive protection as submarines are argued to afford and I submit this point for the careful consideration of the powers."

EVANSTON COPS TOO ROUGH—HE'S GLAD TO BE EXTRADITED

Fond Du Lac—(AP)—Because Evanston, Ill., police were "rough," Leonard Buchta, 23, waived extradition and was glad to get in jail here. His arraignment on charges of abduction was adjourned yesterday in municipal court.

Buchta, arrested in Evanston Saturday, said the only reason he did not fight extradition to Wisconsin was because the Evanston police subjected him to three "third degree" grillings.

YOUNG M'DONALD AND YOUNG HOOVER MEET

Los Angeles—(AP)—As Assistant MacDonald, son of the British prime minister, was preparing to leave here by airplane for Washington today, details of a meeting with Herbert Hoover, Jr., were disclosed.

Unlike the conference of their fathers, Ramsey MacDonald and the president of the United States, over being held on the banks of the Potomac river in Virginia, the pair talked about aviation, a subject of mutual interest, at the dinner table in the Pasadena home of H. M. Robinson, banker. The British visitor is an aviation enthusiast, and young Hoover is radio chief for the Western Air Express.

One of the choice bits on the air tonight will be the broadcast of the Wisconsin-Markquette basketball game at Madison over WTMJ, WIAA and WIEA. The contest goes on the air at 7:30 p. m.

Poetic folk songs and old France highlight the program over WLV, KYW and N. B. C. stations starting at 7:30 o'clock.

Richard Rogers, one of the foremost writers of musical comedy scores will be guest artist in a broadcast featuring his own compositions over N. B. C., including WTMJ at 8:30 p. m.

A tribute is paid to Agriculture and its endeavors with a modern prototype of the ancient ceremonies of planting and harvest time through WIAA, WIEA, KYW and N. B. C. stations at 8 p. m.

The story of the famous Indian orator, Red Jacket, is dramatized on the Columbia system at 6 o'clock.

A classic among broadcasts, "He Knew Lincoln" is on WGN and N. B. C. stations at 8 p. m.

Dennis King, stage and screen idol, is scheduled to appear at 10:30 p. m. on the Columbia chain. You can hear the broadcast through WCCO or WFBM.

Two midnight songs homeward bound at 2 a. m. from a party which was agreed to break up at midnight furnish a bit of dramatically humorous compensation during "Mr. and Mrs." on WHEM and Columbia stations at 9 o'clock.

CHILTON MAN SPEAKER AT KIWANIS MEETING

Judge H. Arps, president of the Chilton Kiwanis club, will speak at the next meeting of the Appleton club Wednesday noon at Conway hotel. He will talk on conservation. A. G. Osterhaus is arranging the program.

Financial And Market News

UTILITIES LEAD UPWARD MOVEMENT ON STOCK MARKET

Gains of One to Six Points Are Distributed Over Broad List

BY STANLEY W. PREXOSIL
New York.—(AP)—The stock market shook off an early period of irregularity today and moved upward under the leadership of the public utilities and a select group of steel, automobile, rubber and business appliance shares and specialties. Gains of 1 to 6 points were distributed over a fairly broad list by early afternoon trading was only moderately heavy in volume.
Business news was mixed. Reports of a sharp increase in crude oil production last week were accompanied by a reduction of 1 cent a gallon in the tank wagon price of gasoline in New York and New England by the Standard Oil Co. of New York. Iron Age reported that "steel demand, after rebounding sharply in January, is not holding its own but, on the whole, has shown a further slight gain." The average operations for the country at large are now at 9 per cent of capacity, compared with nearly 77 per cent a week ago.
Call money renewed at 4 per cent and was in liberal supply at that figure, with indications that the rate would be maintained.
The market broke 4 points at the opening on reports of a lull in the negotiations for a recapitalization plan to avert receivership proceedings, scheduled for a hearing late this afternoon, but has made up its loss by early afternoon. Union Pacific broke 4 1/2 points to 226 on selling presumably influenced by a downward revision of earlier earnings estimates.
Goodrich rubber, in which the Eastern interests of Cleveland recently acquired a large interest, ran up 6 points to a new 1930 high at 80. Goodrich advanced 3 points and U. S. Rubber 2.
U. S. Steel common crossed 154 for a gain of nearly 3 points but again met heavy profit taking at that level and had difficulty in maintaining its gain. Gulf States extended its gain to 2 points and Vanadium sold 2 points higher.
Extreme gains of 3 to 6 points were registered by Standard Gas and Electric, American Water Works, American Power & Light, Colorado Fuel, Westinghouse Electric, American Woolen preferred, International Business Machines, Underwood Elliott Fisher and Auburn Auto. Vanadium Defining issues also showed outstanding strength.

HEAVIER TRADING BUT PRICE CHANGES SMALL

New York.—(AP)—Bonds moved narrowly today on a slightly larger turnover. Prices of prime rails held within small fractions of the Monday close during the early trading, which witnessed a small upward turn in the utilities.
Convertible rails were again fairly active. New Haven 6 1/2s rose more than 1 point on the Monday advance, while Atchafalaya 4 1/2s and Missouri Pacific 5 1/2s eased. Stock feature bonds of other descriptions were rather quiet with the exception of Reading Coal & Iron 6s which rose more than 2 points on active buying. American Telephone 4 1/2s gained about 2 on small sales.
The more popular investment rails included Northern Pacific General 3s, Pennsylvania General 4 1/2s, Southern Railway General 4 1/2s and New York Central Debenture 4s, but the demand was not so strong as Monday, with emphasis on the firmness of this pivotal group and its ability to retain last week's advances. Secondary rails were dull.
Cuba Republic 5 1/2s were steady in the face of a $40,000,000 offering of public works bonds bearing the same coupon rate. The new issue matures in 15 years. There were fair turnovers in German Republic 7s, up about half a point and in British 5 1/2s, unchanged.
Domestic industrials lagged, finding the market dull.
United States government treasury certificates and liberty bonds were inactive, the earlier transactions showing small recessions.
Aside from the Cuban Loan, the day's new offerings embraced three small issues for the Middle West Utilities system totaling $3,515,000; $4,000,000 in Utah Power & Light first mortgage 5s, due 1944, priced at 92; and $1,500,000 in South Pittsburgh Water company first lien 5s, due 1940, at 93.
Among the listed utilities there was moderate accumulation of American Telephone 5s of 1965, New York Edison 3s, Duquesne Light 4 1/2s and North American Edison 5 1/2s.

POTATO MARKET
Waupaca.—(AP)—Shipments Wisconsin, 29. United States, 666. Last year Wisconsin, 3. United States, 35. Waupaca market carloads P. O. B. $2.20 to $2.25 to growers mostly $2.00.
Chicago market arrived 73. On track 113. Market about steady. Wisconsin firsts 49 to 52; second 44 to 47; third 41 to 44; fourth 38 to 41; fifth 35 to 38; sixth 32 to 35; seventh 29 to 32; eighth 26 to 29; ninth 23 to 26; tenth 20 to 23; eleventh 17 to 20; twelfth 14 to 17; thirteenth 11 to 14; fourteenth 8 to 11; fifteenth 5 to 8; sixteenth 2 to 5; seventeenth 0 to 3; eighteenth 0 to 3; nineteenth 0 to 3; twentieth 0 to 3.

B. AND O. OFFERS CONVERTIBLE BOND TO STOCKHOLDERS

Privilege in New Financing Plan Expires on March 11, 1930

BY GEORGE T. HUGHES
(Copyright, 1930, by Cons. Press)
New York—New financing for Baltimore & Ohio Railroad has taken the form of an offer to stockholders of a convertible bond. Shareholders common and preferred, of record of February 3, last received the right to subscribe to an issue of $63,031,000 of 4 1/2 per cent convertible bonds due on February 1, 1930 at a price of 95 in an amount equivalent to 20 per cent of their stock holdings. The privilege expires on March 11, 1930.

The Baltimore and Ohio has outstanding $38,853,181 of preferred stock and $255,390,554 of common stock or a total of $315,793,735. Twenty per cent of this amount would be $62,958,747 so that if every stockholder should take his quota of the new bonds there would be enough to go around. The bonds will be convertible into common stock at any time from February 1, 1931 to February 1, 1935 at $120 a share and thereafter at increased prices for the stock.

Now let us see what this means to the shareholder. In the first place the bonds will be available only in $1,000 denominations and inasmuch as the allotment is 20 per cent of the par amount of stock held one would have to own 50 shares of stock to have rights sufficient to subscribe for a single $1,000 bond. Supposing the investor to hold a smaller amount than 50 shares he has two options, either to buy enough rights in the open market to make the total up to fifty or to sell his rights to someone else.

Again taking for the sake of illustration a market price of $1.25 for one right which was approximately the quotation ruling at the time the bonds were offered, we see that 50 rights would have a value of $62.50. Now subscribers must add to the $50 fixed as the subscription price for a $1,000 bond interest up to March 11 which is $5 so that the total price of a bond taken on March 11 would be $57.50. Add the value of the rights, $62.50, and we have $1,017.50 as the real cost. Expressing this in the notation used in the bond market Baltimore and Ohio 4 1/2s would sell at 101 3/4 with prices as assumed above.

CORBETT COMPLETES NEW MAPS OF CITY

New maps of the city of Appleton showing the places of interest, including theatres, golf courses, parks, camps, hotels and city buildings have been completed by Kenneth Corbett, chamber of commerce secretary and are to be used by convention and promotion committees. The maps also show the highways running through the city and indicate the number of miles between Appleton and cities on these highways.

RAILS WANT SHARE OF FREIGHT RATES

File Petition to Be Named as Parties to Commission's Order

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau)
Washington—The Green Bay and Western Railroad, the Kewaunee, Green Bay and Western Railroad, and the Ahnapee and Western Railroad have filed a petition with the Interstate Commerce Commission through I. C. Jorgenson of Green Bay, traffic manager, asking to be specifically named as parties to the Commission's order concerning division of freight rates in Western and Mountain Pacific territories. The Commission undertook the study of division of freight rates in these territories on their own accord in October 1923. The three Wisconsin railroads now petitioning for inclusion in the Commission's order operate 298.9 miles and interchange traffic with the Chicago and Northwestern at Green Bay, New London, Wisconsin Rapids, and Marshland; with the Chicago, Milwaukee St. Paul and Pacific at Green Bay, Wisconsin Rapids, and Winona, Minn.; with the MSTP & SSM at Black Creek, Amherst, and Plover; with the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy at East Winona, Wis., and Winona, Minn.; and with the CGW at Winona, Minn. Though joint rates are in effect over all these lines, which are included in the Western Trunk Line territory. The Commission's order has the effect of generally increasing the rates.

BANISTER REVIEW FEATURES ELK PARTY

A review by students of Banister Dancing academy will feature the entertainment program for the Elk club party Wednesday evening at club rooms, according to Edward F. Mumm, in charge of arrangements. The program, which is for Elks, their wives, and friends, will begin with a dinner at 6:30, during which the Elk band will play a special concert. Charles Keltmann, a recent addition to the band, will feature with a piccolo solo. Dancing and cards will furnish entertainment after the Banister review.

Adm. N. Y.—After Adm's new councilmen decided that the salaries of all public officials should be doubled, they were disappointed. They found that the motion was illegal due to the fact that such action must be taken 30 days before the newly elected council takes office.

$80,000,000 in Special Taxes

You Share in This Bill

The buyers of insurance in the United States indirectly but actually contribute a vast sum—approximately $80,000,000 annually—through taxes additional to the regular taxes paid by insurance companies in common with other lines of industry. This money is a burden upon the premium of the policyholder, notwithstanding it is collected from the company.

The original purpose of special taxes upon insurance was to maintain state supervision of the business, but such supervision uses but four cents of each dollar, and the balance—about $77,000,000—goes into the general funds of the states.

These special taxes of the state and the taxes which insurance companies pay in common with all other business concerns, and owners of property, as well as their substantial taxes to the Federal Government, are factors in the cost of fire insurance.

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States has adopted the following resolution:

"... Special State Taxes now levied on Policyholders through insurance companies should not be considered as a source of general revenue, but should be reduced to the total in each state which will adequately support such state's departmental supervision"

The Stock Fire Insurance companies, which transact by far the greater portion of the fire insurance business of the country, want you to realize this condition and its effect upon the cost of your fire insurance.

You can't help but notice how much softer Kotex is

HERE'S a sanitary pad designed to fit securely, designed to protect adequately, without being in the least bulky. And it is soft... even after hours of wear!

Used in great hospitals

You'll be glad to know that 85% of the country's leading hospitals not only approve of, but actually use the Kotex absorbent (Cellucotton absorbent wadding) today!

Please remember that Cellucotton is not cotton—it is a cellulose substance which performs the same sanitary function as the softest cotton, but with 5 times the absorbency!

Does more of the work than any other

Let's not call the SPINNER merely a washing machine—it's far more than that. For washing is only a small part of the many things it does. It washes—then SPINS out the suds. It rinses—then SPINS out the water. It starches—then dries for the line. Why not, then, call the SPINNER a complete home laundry that eliminates basement wash days—for it needs no wringer, boiler, rinse tub or starch basin to help it do almost everything but hang out the clothes—fast, clean and safe.

My, but you would enjoy a SPINNER. Its lustrous, everlasting sea-green and tan PORCELAIN body matches in beauty and craftsmanship the finest piece of furniture. Yet the SPINNER costs no more than what you are asked to pay for an ordinary washing machine. Free demonstration. Pay-as-you-use plan.
